

Rugiati before abandoning grounded tanker

Tanker Skipper in Agony

Screams in Night

GENOA, Italy (UPI) — The captain cried out as in pain.

"I must answer for everything, for everyone."

A thousand miles away, rockets, bombs and napalm canisters shattered and seared the remains of his ship. (See also Page 30.)

"I must carry the cross alone," he cried.

Every explosion and tongue of fire aboard the pieces of the reefed super tanker Torrey Canyon off southwestern Britain was a blow to Pastrengo Rugiati.

Once he served aboard an Italian submarine and then shipped on Italian torpedo boat in the Second World War. Captured, he spent 18 months in a prison camp in Poland, then returned to the sea.

He commanded a sister ship of the Torrey Canyon before he took command of the super tanker now spilling its cargo of crude oil on the coastal waters and shores of Cornwall, England.

"Only I must answer for what's happened," Rugiati said. "I should never have left my ship. My place was with her."

He had spent two days aboard trying to salvage the tanker. Then he fled home.

"Please, please, dear, think of us," his wife, Anna, consoled him. "Think of your family."

He trembled; his voice cracked as he spoke to newsmen.

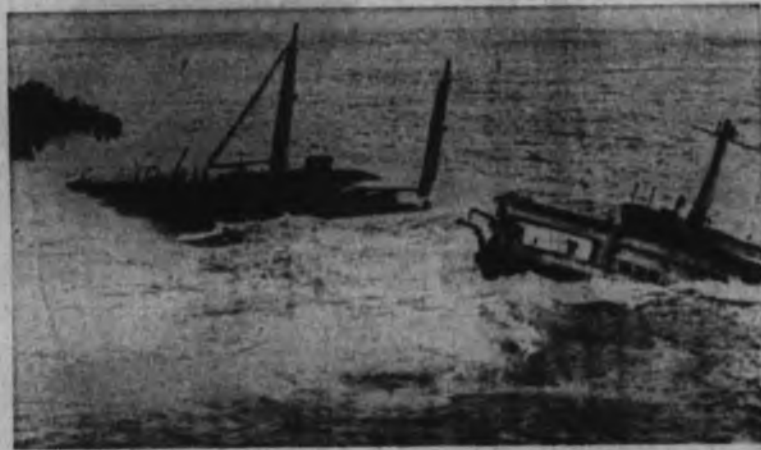

"He wakes up screaming every night," his wife said. "He says he hears the roar of the rocks tearing into his ship. We had to send him to the doctor."

Rugiati, his face haggard, would not answer questions about how the modern ship, 61,263 tons, carrying 118,000 tons of crude oil from Kuwait to Britain, had struck Seven Stones reef.

There is $18,500,000 in insurance involved. There probably will be claims because of befoiled beaches in England. The ramifications of the reefing of the Torrey Canyon could keep admiralty lawyers busy for years.

For Rugiati now it is a recurring nightmare.

"He is still in a state of shock," his wife said, comforting him.

Double Blow to Super Fleet

VANCOUVER (CP) — A world shipping magazine Wednesday described the Torrey Canyon disaster as a two-fronted blow that will be felt by the shipping industry for years to come.

C. Y. Tung, head of Orient Overseas Line, which has a fleet of more than 60 vessels operating through Hong Kong, said major companies now will be wary about building super tankers.

He also said loss of the 62,000-ton Torrey Canyon would boost insurance premiums to a degree that would extend over the next 15 years.

Mr. Tung's company is currently building three super-tankers of 200,000 tons deadweight tonnage each, which will be among the largest in the world.

He feels 200,000 tons is about the economic maximum in construction of tankers or bulk carriers.

"As a result of the Torrey Canyon wreck, the biggest in history, insurance companies will not be prepared to shoulder bigger risks," he added.

Practice Plane Crashes Into Houses, Motel

KENNER, La. (UPI) — A Delta Airlines DC-8 on a training flight crashed in a residential area near the New Orleans airport today, setting a Hilton motel complex afire.

Police said at least eight persons were killed.

The big craft, carrying a captain, four trainers and an instructor for the Federal Aviation Agency, was approaching the runway when its wing dipped and clipped three houses and the plane crashed into the back part of the motel, setting it afire.

Police said five bodies were recovered from the plane, two from the surrounding area of residences and apartment houses and one from the motel.

Residents of the apartment houses said they heard an explosion and then "terrible screaming," according to the state police.

Feed, Fight Our Choice

VANCOUVER (CP) — National NDP leader T. C. Douglas says Canada's younger generation will either help the underprivileged people of the world or fight them.

Landymore

'Only Fair'

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Wednesday it would only be fair to reinstate Admiral William Landymore into the navy.

In a CBC free-time telecast, he charged that Defence Minister Heleyer is rushing his unification bill through Parliament in a bid to seize the Liberal leadership, "regardless of the consequences."

"You recall that the minister attacked Admiral Landymore, almost stating he has been treacherous to his country. He had to apologize."

"ONLY FAIRNESS"

"It would be only fairness today to reinstate the admiral, to put an end to this rush towards unification so that Canadians once more will be able to live in the traditions of their past and the greatness of their services."

The admiral was fired as commanding officer of Maritime Command last July after clashing with Mr. Heleyer over

Johnson Reins CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has ordered the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency to get out of the business of subsidizing private groups through secret, under-the-table deals. (See Page 8.)

Johnson at the same time Wednesday promised to give serious consideration to creation of a new institution that in effect would continue federal subsidies, but do so in the open.

The president acted after receiving recommendations from a three-man group he appointed after disclosure that the CIA had been secretly financing overseas activities by private educational, labor, philanthropic and cultural organizations.

Johnson accepted the following recommended policy statement by the group:

"No federal agency shall provide any covert financial assistance or support, directly or indirectly, to any of the nation's educational or private voluntary organizations."

He told 1,000 delegates to the 48th annual convention of the B.C. Teachers' Federation that the education department is preparing a motion picture warning students against consumption of the hallucinatory drug.

"In a fluctuating year with many ups and downs in education, this threat of possible indiscriminate use of the drug

Passenger Killed In Plane Plunge

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI) — A United Air Lines jet passenger plane fell 8,000 feet down an air pocket high over Wyoming Wednesday, but landed safely here. One man was killed when he released his seat belt to grab his granddaughter.

Other passengers were reported injured and were taken to Natrona County airport by ambulances standing by at the Casper airport.

Only Huntley Sticks To His Mike

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's major television and radio networks carried on Wednesday with barely a hitch on the first day of an unprecedented newsmen and performers' strike that had secretaries pinching for commentators and lawyers for engineers.

Some 18,000 members of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists went on strike at CBS, ABC, NBC and Mutual network studios and stations in New York, Washington, Chicago and Los Angeles. Some of the networks' broadcast engineers, newsmen and stage crews walked out in sympathy later in the day.

Film files and tape libraries were raided for replacements for live soap operas, panel shows, quiz games and even some newscasts which had to be skipped. Famous names like David Brinkley, Johnny Carson, Walter Cronkite, Captain Kangaroo, Peter Jennings and Hugh Downs, were off the air and some were on the picket line.

"And I'll be there tomorrow morning, too," said Downs after seven hours of marching outside NBC-TV's midtown headquarters, part of the time in a drenching rain. He had inadvertently been driven to the building in a network limousine.

Peterson Disturbed

LSD Worst Problem

VANCOUVER (CP) — Education Minister Peterson said Wednesday the potential menace of LSD among high school students is the most disturbing problem his department has faced this year.

He told 1,000 delegates to the 48th annual convention of the B.C. Teachers' Federation that the education department is preparing a motion picture warning students against consumption of the hallucinatory drug.

"In a fluctuating year with many ups and downs in education, this threat of possible indiscriminate use of the drug LSD has disturbed me more than anything else," Mr. Peterson said.

"While no comprehensive survey has been made regarding the use of LSD, there is reason to believe a significant number of young people of school age have become involved."

"When one considers the susceptibility of young people to hidden persuaders and when one realizes the disastrous consequences which can follow the use of some drugs — particularly LSD — it is evident there is need for education to pay increasing attention to it."

out of all matters belonging to the provinces and condemned excessive federal spending while demanding more federal money.

These inevitable problems of a federation would be solved in future as in the past by "policies of moderation and compromise," mutually-acceptable accommodations between provincial and federal governments and between English- and French-speaking language groups.

He said the future holds no

Shelford Threat

Inaction Revives Bolt Talk

WISTERIA, B.C. (CP) — Cyril Shelford, Social Credit MLA for Okanagan, made his second threat Wednesday to bolt party ranks over gasoline prices.

The maverick member was angered by government inaction on the Morrow Report on Gasoline Prices and condemned the government for its failure to move.

"There is no government policy and they seem to be taking no action," Mr. Shelford said in a telephone interview.

"NO ALTERNATIVE"

"If the government takes no action I will have no alternative but to change my political affiliation."

Mr. Shelford sparked the setting up of the commission by threatening to resign in 1964.

The report of Judge Charles Morrow of Prince George called for a moratorium on service station building, reduction in the price differential between premium and regular gasolines and unspecified government action if his recommendations were not followed by the industry.

MOTION LOST

The report was tabled in the legislature in 1965. A legislative committee looked into the report this year but a motion by Burns Lake rancher Shelford for acceptance of the committee report was turned down.

The House also turned down a request from Mr. Shelford and three of the 14 other committee members to submit a minority report asking the government to bring the industry under the Public Utilities Commission.

Mr. Shelford said if no action is taken before the next session of the legislature that he will sit either as an independent or leave politics.

Attorney-General Bonner said Wednesday night in Victoria

Rebels Hit By Bolivia

LE PAZ (UPI) — Bolivian warplanes bombed newly-discovered clandestine airfields and guerrilla training camps in southeastern Bolivia Wednesday and moved up troops to wipe them out.

Official reports have indicated Fidel Castro's revolutionary mastermind, Ernesto (Che) Guevara, was among the guerrilla leaders, but there has been no official confirmation.

University Cauldron Boiling Up to the Top

SITUATION VACANT: The waters of discontent are still at a merry boil out of the University of Victoria's campus.

Latest suggestion to come to the top of the cauldron is that perhaps president Malcolm Taylor himself may become a casualty. There are hints he has tendered his resignation to the governors but it has been rejected.

The battle between the staff factions and pressure groups could well bring about the downfall of Dr. Taylor.

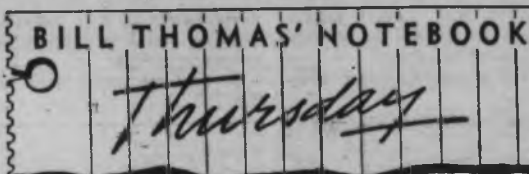

Possibly the university could give further consideration to the idea of having a rector.

The pattern usually followed is to have some prominent person elected annually by the university. It was suggested that Senator Hardland Molson fill this role when the idea was tossed about some time ago. Nothing came of it.

One follower of university affairs has suggested that all students wear gowns. This might help to cover up some of the odd flights of fashion seen on campus.

Imagine, if you can, a student with beard, a Peanuta sweater, orange jeans and tennis shoes covered by a black academic gown. It might help, at that.

SMART SWISS: Those crafty Europeans have stolen a march on us again. There is an air of secrecy in Ottawa about the appointment of the next governor-general, but the Swiss have blabbed the name of the next appointee all over a magazine called La Suisse. Horlogerie et Revue Internationale de L'Horlogerie. In bilingual English, it's a watch magazine. The worthy journal has an Expo message by none other than the prime minister of Canada.

Lester B. Pearson is shown in a picture titled His Excellency. It may be just a mistake or a mere coincidence, but then, you never can tell.

ROUND AROUND: A concert by the Victoria Symphony Orchestra under the direction of guest conductor Harry Newton will be broadcast over CBC radio. This is the first time in 10 years that the local orchestra has been on the air.

The concert at 8 p.m. Sunday in the university gym is free while the broadcast is at 11 p.m. Wednesday.

Program features works by Rossini, Haydn, Delius and Mozart.

CANNED CHEER: There still seems to be a shortage of B.C.'s only canned beer. The potpourri brewed by Ben Ginter's Tartan Brewery at Prince George is hard to come by.

There is little point in complaining to the Liquor Control Board, for it is not in the least concerned with the public taste.

Big demand for the beer comes from apartment dwellers who prefer the cans to heavier bottles when packing in to fishing camps.

DOCKYARD BRIEF: Official word is that former officers who take jobs in HMC Dockyard do not get both their pensions and full salary. Here is how the official communication reads:

"When a retired officer of the Canadian Forces, entitled to a pension, is employed in the public service of Canada, he is entitled to receive that part of his annuity or pension which, when added to his civilian pay, does not exceed the pay authorized for him at the time of his retirement from the service."

What makes this matter complicated and appears discriminatory is that ranks up to petty officer and his equivalent can work in HMC Dockyard and get full pension and full pay.

All ranks who go to work in private industry get the full shot. It seems a bit unfair that the government should disavow the employment of qualified help in this way.

GOLD SHOW: Popularity of the Best of Barkerville show has prompted the Centennial Society officials to schedule a matinee.

Performances at the McPherson Theatre are on April 19 and 20. The matinee is at 2:30 p.m. on April 19.

Advance inquiries indicate a repeat of the sellouts that welcomed the last offering of this show.

Your Good Health

Mouthwash No Cure-All

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: As students at a beauty school, we study a course in good grooming. We have found an article saying that mouthwash is useless. The girls would like to know your views on this. — V.S.

I won't go so far as to say that it is useless, but I have to laugh at some of these TV commercials. In the first 15 seconds the boy won't kiss her, and in the last 15 seconds she's walking down the aisle in her wedding gown because now she has the right kind of mouthwash.

It's about as sensible as expecting a squirt or two of cologne to make up for never taking a bath. Some folks try it, but if they are dirty enough to smell it takes more than cologne.

The girl who stays clean doesn't really need cologne, but it adds an esthetic touch, and you can say about the same thing for mouthwash. If you really have bad breath, you need something more.

The scent will cover up or disguise mild food odors, but I wouldn't advise a beauty operator to eat a lot of onions and expect mouthwash to make her breath smell like roses. Smoking doesn't help either.

Brushing teeth can be important, but some people have gaps and crevices in which bits of food collect and decay, and can't easily be loosened with a tooth brush. But a few inches of dental floss can clean between the teeth where neither brush nor mouthwash help.

BIG DIFFERENCE

Diseases of the gums can smell very bad and nothing will help except having the diseases treated (pyorrhea, Vincent's disease, etc.). From the health standpoint, such treatment is important. It makes the difference, eventually, between having teeth and not having them.

Drainages from infections of sinuses or nose are important sources of bad breath. Mouthwash obviously can't affect them — and once again the odor is a warning that treatment is needed.

Exudates from diseased tonsils or adenoids, or from some ailment of the intestinal tract or the lungs fall in the same class.

Mouthwash may be temporarily refreshing, and I don't intend to pan it. But when somebody's breath bowls you over it's time to tell her to find out what's wrong, not just refer her to the mouthwash commercials.

Dear Dr. Molner: I wish you would again make the point that eating raw beef can be as harmful as raw pork. I have a son who does not think this is possible. — MRS. GOLF.

It's a different kind of danger, and probably not common but it is there. Raw pork can cause trichinosis, from a tiny organism which can be killed by cooking. Raw beef can contain certain eggs of the tapeworm. Again, cooking kills them.

Dear Dr. Molner: What is hypertension? — A.V.

It's just another term for high blood pressure.

Girl's Fate Lies On Court Ruling

VANCOUVER (CP) — What may be a life or death ruling for a 14-year-old Pentecost girl was expected in family court today.

Return

The unification of the three services. Mr. Diefenbaker said senior retired officers who testified before the Commons' defence committee all warned that unification will be detrimental to the morale and effectiveness of the armed forces.

"In the last few weeks, HMCS Saguenay in its daily orders, and I have them here, has stated that leave will end 'until morale improves.'"

"Why is this being done? Simply because a minister has decided on a course—a course designed to lead him to the leadership of the Liberal party regardless of the consequences. The prime minister won't step in."

The 71-year-old chief clerk called for new laws to ban the possession of the drug LSD and the slaughter of baby seals on the East Coast.

Switching to the case of Mr. Justice Leo Landreville, who faces removal from the Ontario Supreme Court for alleged misconduct, he hinted that he favors the judge's request to appear before the bar of the Commons to make a final plea.

Strike

A spokesman for AETRA, whose members are among the highest paid union members in the country, said the union is "prepared to sit this out if it lasts all summer." Major exceptions among the ranks of network commentators were NBC's Chet Huntley and Frank McGee. Huntley was on TV. McGee was on radio.

Huntley said he had mulled over whether to observe the picket line all day and then went ahead with his 7 p.m. NBC-TV show without his partner, Brinkley, because "AETRA is not really qualified to represent the network's newscasters."

By noon re-runs of old Loretta Young and Jack Benny shows were replacing live soap operas including Love of Life and Another World.

If the strike lasts through the weekend, headlines like Jackie Gleason and Ed Sullivan will be seen in re-runs. Cronkite, Jennings and other news commentators were to be replaced by supervisory employees with unknown names and strange faces.

With each day, network spokesmen said, programming could become more seriously affected as the backlog of new tapes is consumed and re-runs become more frequent. They denied they were bound by an earlier agreement with the union that would prevent them from using tapes made since last Nov. 18.

Judge Earl Vance was to rule on an application of the girl's mother to take her out of custody of the Children's Aid Society and a chance to get a blood transfusion she might need in an operation to save her life.

Both Miriam Myllyniemi and her mother want the operation, but refuse a transfusion because it is against the teachings of their Jehovah's Witnesses religious sect.

CRITICALLY ILL Miriam is critically ill with a blood condition. Doctors want to use blood transfusions during surgery in the event of any emergency.

The society took the girl into custody Jan. 17, four days after she was admitted to hospital for treatment.

"I want the surgery," said Mrs. Myllyniemi. "If the chance

PTA Shuns Walkout Threat

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Parent-Teacher Federation said Wednesday it will not support a threatened walkout by teachers with large classes next September.

Mrs. Marion Redgrave, president of the Parent-Teacher group, said she didn't like the way the teachers set an arbitrary pupil-teacher ratio.

"What happens to the one or two pupils over 39 in the class?" she asked. "We have to explore the possibility of getting more teachers on the non-cost share basis in the individual school board districts."

Hanoi Hopes All Political

SAIGON (CP)—Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, South Vietnam's chief of state, said Wednesday the Communists cannot achieve a military victory in Vietnam, but "hope to win the war in Washington."

Thieu expressed this view aboard the U.S. nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise in the Gulf of Tonkin where 90 Americans—flyers, sailors and marines—were awarded South Vietnamese medals.

FIGHTING

Thieu said the Hanoi regime believes "that when men like Senator (J. W.) Fulbright and Senator (Robert F.) Kennedy express some view other than that of President Johnson there is fighting among America's leaders."

"The Communists believe these personal opinions of some senators, some magazines or some private societies can change the determination of the United States."

AWARDS

A party of high officials, including Thieu, South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky and Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the U.S. commander, flew to the Enterprise for the awards ceremony in a trip evidently planned to emphasize support for the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

Westmoreland said the bombing, carried out by U.S. Navy flyers from the carriers and land-based pilots of the U.S. Air Force and Marine Corps, "has raised the cost of aggression by those in the North against our brothers in the South."

GUERRILLA TOLL

A U.S. spokesman said Viet Cong guerrillas killed 56 South Vietnamese civilians, wounded 76 and kidnapped 81 last week.

Ky said his government would talk peace with the Communist government of North Vietnam.

But asked whether he would talk with the Viet Cong's South Vietnam National Liberation Front, which Saigon claims is controlled by Hanoi, he replied:

"The answer, for a thousand and one times, is no."

Ky's statements were made in the light of the South Vietnamese government's qualified acceptance of peace proposals made by Secretary-General U Thant of the United Nations.

Peace Bid Supported

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canada has informed Secretary-General U Thant that, as a member of the International Control Commission, it is ready to aid in Thant's latest Vietnam peace efforts.

The offer was made Wednesday by Foreign Affairs Minister Martin in reply to the secretary-general's proposals of March 14.

Major Blows Bombs Blast North

SAIGON (UPI)—Waves of U.S. jets bombed a storage area near Hanoi Wednesday in the third consecutive day of heavy strikes against North Vietnam's industrial heartland.

Pilots reported huge explosions and fires. U.S. military officials, who also reported a general kill in ground fighting, said the jets hammered the Iron Triangle northeast of Hanoi, where much of the north's industrial facilities are located.

The raids followed strikes which laid waste to one big steel factory and two large power plants. Tuesday, about 400 U.S. planes hit the north with one of the heaviest punches in weeks, blasting three targets near the big port city of Haiphong 60 miles east of Hanoi. Similar strikes were flown Monday against the Haiphong-Hanoi area.

British Actors Join Anti-Bomb Faction

LONDON (UPI)—More than 300 prominent Britons, including 88 MPs, five Nobel Prize winners and some of the country's top entertainment and literary figures, called on Prime Minister Wilson Wednesday to dissociate Britain from U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

The appeal appeared as an advertisement in The Times. The names included among actors and actresses Sean Connery, his wife Diane Cilento, Julie Christie, Peter O'Toole, Deborah Kerr, Paul Scofield, Sybil Thorndike, Peggy Ashcroft and David Warner.

Writers, architects, composers and artists included Benjamin Britten, E. M. Forster, Peter Hall, Robert Bolt, Brigid Brophy, Alan Sillitoe, Arnold Wesker and Barbara Hepworth. The Nobel winners included R. L. M. Synge, who won the 1952 chemistry prize; C. F. Powell, physics in 1950; Lord Boyd Orr, Peace Prize in 1949; M. F. Wilkins, physiology and medicine in 1962; and Max Born, physics in 1954.

CALLS FOR END

Dr. Michael Ramsey, the Archbishop of Canterbury, went on BBC television to call for an end to the bombing. "We deplore the bombing, the cruel things done on both sides... I join those who long to see America take the initiative by stopping the bombing."

Army Wrong for Once Wrong Mom Notified

DENVER (UPI)—A U.S. army officer came to the home of Mrs. Pearl Pratt last weekend to tell her that her son by a previous marriage, Pfc. Robert E. Brown, had been killed in Vietnam.

"I told the officer it wasn't true, he was making a mistake," Mrs. Pratt said Wednesday. "He told me, 'Mrs. Pratt, we don't make mistakes.'"

Wednesday morning, the officer returned to say, "Mrs. Pratt, we have made a mistake." The dead soldier was Pfc. Robert E. Brown, 18, son of Mrs. Alma Brown of Chicago. Both Robert E. Browns were in B. Company, 2nd Battalion, 1st Air Cavalry Division. The body had been sent by the army to Denver for funeral services Wednesday. Now, it's going on to Chicago for last rites today or Friday.

Said Mrs. Brown of Mrs. Pratt: "We both can't be lucky... it definitely is my Robert."

Mrs. Pratt wants her son returned to the U.S. but says she'll leave the decision to him. He phoned his mother Wednesday to say he wants to finish the remaining six months of his Vietnam combat duty.

"Don't worry, mother," he said. "I'm all right."

On the Spot

THE DECISION OF 1,500 University of Victoria students to delay any protest action over the dismissal of three faculty members until President Malcolm Taylor addresses them on the subject next Wednesday is to be commended.

Dr. Taylor, too, must be congratulated for accepting his responsibility in the matter by offering to report directly to the students on the campus crisis. In this regard, the president's decision should not be interpreted as a sign of weakness on the part of the administrators of the University but rather as a genuine attempt by its head to clarify a situation which has become murky through misunderstandings, gossip and unfounded rumors.

If the present situation is allowed to continue without some positive action being taken, it can only bring disrepute upon the University itself—an unhappy development which surely nobody desires whether he be chancellor, president, faculty member, student or one of the thousands of Greater Victoria citizens who have given so generously to the University of Victoria in the past.

As of now the onus for resolving the whole unfortunate affair must rest solely upon the president—an unenviable burden for any man to bear, but one of the hazards of what has become in recent years a most hazardous job.

Gallant Bid

CANADA'S national team made a gallant bid to dethrone Russia as world champions of amateur hockey, so-called, but it was not to be. This year at least. Perhaps another year hence, at the Olympics which in 1968 take the place of the world hockey tournament.

Five years in succession now the Russians have reigned at the top, an ironic situation since in the professional NHL, staffed by Canadian players, rests the cream of the crop. Only the fetish that keeps pros and amateurs apart and prevents the Russians testing their mettle against an NHL club even in an exhibition game, delays the day when it will be a case of the best this country produces against any and all comers.

That day will come, although hockey may follow the course of soccer football, when teams from outside Britain fashioned skills equal to those of the creators of the game. No land can for ever maintain the mastery of a sport once the world takes it up.

Meantime Russia has defeated the Canadians and continues to wear the hockey crown. There is talk of poor refereeing, injuries to our players, and fluke goals, but these are part of the game. This country's national team may have got the bad breaks, but it must be acknowledged the Russians were the dominant entry in the Vienna tournament. They scored double the goals of any other country, for instance, and conceded fewer.

Nevertheless, the team built up through recent years by Father Bauer challenged Russian supremacy with elan and fine playing skills. They nearly pulled it off, and they won wide acclaim for their sporting spirit and behaviour. They were splendid ambassadors of this country.

Keen disappointment was theirs at losing to Russia by one goal in the crucial encounter, but this is not the end of this international story. There will be other chapters to offset their present understandable chagrin.

Ky Wants to Talk

THE UNITED STATES SENATE defence subcommittee has urged the government to lift entirely the restrictions on bombing in North Vietnam, pointing out that, in its view, the restraint has resulted only in heavier loss of life in the American forces and aircraft losses in the billions of dollars.

The U.S. air arms have lost to date 498 aircraft over North Vietnam, together with a large proportion of the men who manned them.

The Senate subcommittee apparently is prepared to accept all the risks that unrestricted bombing would entail in the hope that it would shorten the war. It is ready to accept predictable world reaction to such a policy, and the international complications which could arise if neutral shipping in Haiphong, for example, were to be involved.

The so-called "hawks" who support this policy justify the extension of air warfare to the commercial and industrial complexes around Haiphong and Hanoi, at least in part, by pointing to the war of terror being waged by the Viet Cong in South Vietnam. Monday's bombing of civilian buses near Da Nang is an instance of this savagery, and there is no doubt whatever that the Viet Cong is ruthless in its efforts to force a largely politically-indifferent peasantry to support their campaign—taxing, kidnapping and murdering in the process.

Would an accelerated bombing program induce Hanoi's leaders to come to a peace conference? It is problematical.

Perhaps it would be wisdom to delay a decision, irrevocable as it would be, until Premier Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam has a chance to test his own three-point plan for a settlement.

"South and North alone should talk on the thing they know best—Vietnam," he says. And this seems to make good sense.

His approach would be by way of a ceasefire, two-way talks between Saigon and Hanoi and an international guarantee for the terms of any treaty. Russia and China, he argues, remain in the background when peace feelers have been discerned.

"We are always hearing that the United States is starting talks with Moscow or Hanoi or somebody . . . Why don't they stay in the background and let us deal with Hanoi . . ."

Reluctant as the White House may be to surrender the initiative in this area as the very-much senior partner, Premier Ky's suggestion nevertheless has much to recommend it. In any event it would do no harm to let him try his diplomatic hand. Everybody else has had a whack at it, so far with nothing but dismal and discouraging results.

At least Hanoi and Saigon speak the same language, and, after all, they are the principals in this tragedy.

Federal Ministers Face Critical Scrutiny When Soaring Estimates Reach Parliament

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

SO the estimates are "in," as they say in these political parts. And up a staggering $1 billion to a record $12 billion—almost a guarantee who-knows-how-much of a tax increase.

The next stage in what that greatest of Canadian political wheeler-dealers, C. D. "Trader" Howe once called the "grand Ottawa game of tax and spend," will be the putting through Parliament of these estimates.

And "estimates," in case you haven't heard, is just a fancy name for government spending. A label the Ottawa bureaucracy figures is less alarming to the taxpayers who are going to have to dig up that $12 billion.

But the estimates will get through Parliament with each cabinet minister, according to his taste and style, pleading, juggling, bullying, kidding, soft-soaping, threatening, groveling, clowning, crying and using all the other emotional tricks of the trade to convince the skeptical Opposition that it's nothing less than their national duty in the public interest to approve them.

It's never really easy.

And this time, with that whacking increase and its promise of higher taxes, it'll be harder than ever.

Harder, that is, for some than for others.

For this, in the parliamentary year, is the time of ministerial testing.

Each member of the cabinet in theory must justify the spending of every dime for every project or program in his estimates.

And every MP in the House is expected — to take questioning cracks at them.

These cabinet members who have been decently helpful in answering questions and providing information in the days and weeks and months gone by can look forward to a reasonably painless parliamentary process of their estimates. (These days, what's a million — or a billion?)

But those who have been arrogant, uncooperative and have given the rough edge of their tongues to the Opposition can now prepare for their lumps.

So how does it shape up for whom?

Well, Paul Martin for one, although his striped pants department of external affairs will never win any parliamentary popularity contests, should have a soft touch of it.

The Opposition likes Paul Martin, perhaps prefers him personally to any other member of the cabinet, including Prime Minister Pearson whose charm generates the highest voltage in the House.

Paul Martin, the smoothest professional in the business, not only is courtiously co-operative, but entertaining in the process. The House enjoys even his marshmallowy "non-answers" to Opposition questions.

Revenue Minister Benson, even if he is the tax-collector, will have an easy time. For he too, takes the time and trouble to be helpful. He keeps his cool in the snarliest of situations — something he learned in handling, and what's more, settling those post office and airport strikes.

Energy and Mines Minister Peplin ought to breeze, for he's treated everybody in the Commons with exquisite old-world courtesy.

Transport Minister Pickers, all, once intensely disliked and perhaps even feared, while still a fierce partisan, is respected and even admired, and so should slide his estimates through with practiced professionalism.

The going should be good, too, for Manpower Minister Marchand because of his almost painful sincerity, for Trade Minister Winter, due to his courteous board-room diplomacy made all the more disarming by his fascinating Maritime-Harvard accent, and for State Secretary Judy LaMarsh with her quick wit and talent for wise-crackery.

But the going will be hard for Finance Minister Mitchell Sharp with his pained impatience for what he so obviously considers Opposition stupidities; for Health Minister MacEachen who sometimes lectures the House on its moods and manners; for Agriculture Minister Joe Green, so casual as to seem uncaring; and for Defence Minister Melnyk, who, while competent as a computer, blasts away as if war had been declared.

These estimates again this year won't be the fun they used to be — haven't been since veteran Vancouver Conservative Howard Green left the Commons — and for either the Opposition or the professional MP-watchers in the spectator galleries.

No nickel was ever so insignificant that Howard Green, the Opposition's greatest-ever bird-dog on the estimates, didn't demand an accounting of every cent — even if it took all spring and a good part of the summer, as it often did. (MPs don't seem to care that much any more.)

Opposition MPs, once Howard Green was on the scent of mispent tax dollars, could go away for a couple of weeks in vacation, confident that he would still be giving chase when they arrived back in the House. And the press gallery found it a great time for afternoons off for golf or swimming, with everything holding still for Howard Green.

Small Return

I have followed the struggle of the pulp and sulphite workers of Canada to try and get Canadian unions going and break away from the International with great interest, and it's my firm belief that if leadership was there, 80 per cent of union men would be following suit. The Canadian worker is being taken for millions of dollars a year, and he sees very little in return for his money. I have heard, and been told many times, the money never leaves Canada, but as the cheques must be signed by the union bosses from the States before they will be honored it doesn't matter if the money was in Peking.

PHILLIP HARRISON, 186 Gladstone Ave.

Help Needed

The Liberal government shocker by from Lake Erie cannot possibly be typical of the cabinet ministers but Canada needs divine help at this time. Dumping wealth into Montreal is no solution to a divided nation.

The evidence produced before Mr. Grogg (former chairman of the parliamentary defence committee) made many thoughtful citizens pretty sick, particularly all in any way connected with ex-service people or members of the federal services.

China No Threat In Russian View

By MARK FRANKLAND from Moscow

A FEW years ago China was military dictatorship aimed as an unmentionable subject against the workers and peasants. There are signs that this is happening. It is also possible that the country could fall apart, rather as it did before the revolution. But there is also the hope that the Chinese party might in fact merge with the army and eventually reassert control over it.

Not surprisingly, no one in Moscow is ready to predict the outcome. But it is possible to find people who remain optimistic about China's future behavior as a world power.

But these hopeful Marxist analyses and optimistic forecasts obscure the fact that Sino-Soviet relations have never been easy, both before and since the Chinese Communist Party came to power. What the Soviet leaders now have to do is work out what sort of relations can realistically be supposed to exist between two giant powers that are both Communist.

These feelings were shown most clearly earlier this year when the Chinese were tormenting the Soviet embassy and its staff in Peking. The Russian counter-demonstrations against the Chinese in Moscow were more tightly controlled than some of the demonstrators would have liked.

When the Chinese students demonstrated on Red Square, the Russian crowd—according to Soviet eyewitnesses—did not behave quite as coolly as the Soviet press made out. And it was suburban commuters—not organized demonstrators—who mobbed the car of a particularly provocative Chinese diplomat after he had seen a party of Chinese students off.

Such feelings are, of course, complex. They include a sense that China has been ungrateful, an inevitable suspicion of a vast neighbor. A Russian who traveled recently in Siberia found that emotions about China grew stronger the closer he got to the border: an ignorance, and therefore fear, of the Chinese as Asians.

It is against this background that the policies of the Soviet leadership towards China have to be judged. There is no doubt that the men in the Kremlin know how inflammable public opinion is. One can guess that Khrushchev is no longer with them, for one of his impromptu harangues against the Chinese now could possibly have sparked it off.

The Kremlin policy is simply to keep all options open. Official Soviet statements and the Soviet press have not offered any "sympathetic" interpretation of events in China similar to those produced in the West. But what they do say, and recently with increased force, is that the Chinese Communist party is not to be confused with Mao and his men (Mao himself is written off as incorrigible), that a true Marxist-Leninist party does still exist in China, and there is no theoretical reason why the best of relations should not be established with it in the future.

The Chinese party, and of course the Chinese people too, are thus almost daily represented to the Soviet people as all right. High feeling must be channelled only against Mao Tse-tung and his supporters.

There is a similar coolness about the security implications of the quarrel with China. Military men probably have pretty strong views about the Chinese, but both common sense and the remarks of Soviet officials to their western colleagues suggest that no real Chinese threat is seen for the moment.

The real fears are for the long term. A Soviet Communist might put them like this:

"The great danger is that China will cease to be a socialist society as we understand it. If its social order is changed, and it is no longer a state of workers and peasants led by the Chinese Communist Party, then it will be impossible to have the fraternal relations that can only exist between class allies. But if the present events do not destroy the social order, then the basis for good relations remains."

The worst development would be if the Chinese army under Mao were to establish a the committee's troubles began last August when under the chairmanship of poly-poly Texas Congressman Joe Pool, it decided to hold hearings on the student protest movements against the Vietnam war to decide whether or not they were "reasonable." The result was, at best, high comedy and at worst, low farce.

Students paraded before the committee in fancy dress, announced their names as James Bond or Barry Goldwater and regularly insisted on giving the chairman the Nazi salute. The committee, for its part, was reduced to impotent rage — shouting for police protection at one moment and swapping about with its witnesses the next. Even its own rank and file, a blond-haired young man who took the stand to bear evidence as to the degree of Communist infiltration in the universities — was later revealed to have been performing for a theatre dollar for obligingly supplied by the committee itself.

The truth, of course, is that for years now HUAC has served no other purpose except to supply extremists and exhibitionists with what they most welcome — a public platform. If the American Nazi Party has received publicity and exposure far beyond its deserts, it owes it almost entirely to HUAC: much the same goes for the Ku Klux Klan which plainly enjoyed nothing so much as its week last year before the television cameras.

As for left-wing organizations, if the American Communist Party has any better recruiting officers than Joe Pool and his colleagues it is hard to know who they can be. At times indeed during its most recent series of hearings it seemed almost as if both the Reds and the Red-buffers had realized that they needed one another to keep themselves in business.

Congressmen may not be the most sensitive of mortals but at least they know quickly enough when ridicule is rubbing off on them. By its unprecedented action the HUAC has confirmed that HUAC from being a symbol of fear has become an object of derision. If it is a small step in the context of government economy, it could turn out to be a large one in terms of political liberty.

First World War: Fifty years ago today — in 1917 — a German submarine torpedoed the hospital ship Gloucester Castle in the English Channel. British forces in France occupied Sorel, Heudicourt and Soyécourt.

Second World War: Twenty-five years ago today — in 1942 — the Pacific War Council was created with Canada as a member. German U-boats sank the 300th ship in the Atlantic since the United States entered the war.

Olympic-Sized Pool Preferred

SO AS to clear up any misunderstanding in regard to my views on the Crystal Garden I write this letter.

At a recent special meeting of council (with the press in attendance) I stated the $250,000 of the McPherson legacy that had been " earmarked " to renovate the Crystal could very well be spent to build an Olympic-size swimming pool in or about the Central Park-Arena area. The Crystal could be renovated over a period of possibly five years from current yearly budget.

We are already committed to spend no less than $55,000 this year for a new heating plant.

I do not now advocate in any way that the Crystal be discontinued for I have found from personal investigation the need for this swimming pool which is operating at its full capacity. With the growing population and with growing tourist business the Crystal will still not be able to cater to all even if we do spend this additional $250,000 on a one-shot renovation. Let us not put all our eggs in one basket. Let us have two pools with one at least centrally located.

If the council does vote to spend a quarter of a million, surely this is the time to get salt water back into the Crystal. It's only a little over a block away!

PERCY J. FRAMPTON, Alderman.

The Seal Hunt

Recently CP carried a long article by Paul Dunn, entitled "Minimum of Cruelty in Seal Hunt." I do not know the origin of this article, but it reads as if it had been inspired by the Ministry of Fisheries and I hope to treat it as such. I hope you will allow me some space to comment on it.

Let me first deal with the rather stale old chestnut of the phony film. The ministry keeps on calling it phony, but proof of this statement has yet to appear. However phony it was, does its phoniness justify skinning seals alive? In any event, has the ministry seen no other films of baby seals being killed? Are the shots that appeared on CBC TV phony too?

The ministry accuse humane society officials of being emotional about cruelty. In fact, most humane society officials are less emotional about it than the average man: they have to be, or they wouldn't last. Mr. Dunn's article starts with a quotation from the minister: "Almost 100 per cent of Canadian sealers are extremely careful to kill as humanely as possible." This may be so; it probably is so, when a fisheries officer is "rubbing shoulders with the sealers," to quote once more.

After all, the ministry's inspectors found only one unsmashed baby seal skull, indicating a live skinning, against 86 smashed skulls. Dr. Simpson did rather better and found two humane killings against 31 smashed skulls. But when Dr. Simpson examined the skulls from unsupervised killings, the proportion of inhumanities to smashed skulls jumped to 16 against 12.

The sealers work not in one batch but in widely scattered groups. In a breeding patch which may be as small as five square miles — not so small at all — or as large as one hundred square miles! From experience we know the inspectors to be competent (and devoted men, but, much as I want to keep the tone of this letter reasonable, there is only one word for the inspection system—ludicrous).

On the economics of the seal hunt, the article is regrettably incomplete. It says that sealers "can make up to $1300." What it omits is that some make nothing at all, and, as they have to pay for board and lodging on the ship, may finish up out of pocket. Again, the article says that the landed value of the seals was "just under $2,000,000." How much of this money comes to Canada? And how

BACKGROUND

India Harps on Defence as Millions Hunger

Arms Take Priority Over Suffering

By HAROLD MORRISON
From London

India's people are suffering. Millions are reported dying of malnutrition and starvation. But India's leaders have ruled that defence must take priority.

In the midst of internal crisis, there is to be no cut in military spending that takes an estimated one-quarter of the government's budget. The sight of India spending millions of dollars on arms to protect a population devastated by drought and famine gives emphasis to Pope Paul's declaration that the world is sick; that for the sake of social justice, old, rigid economic concepts must give way and that the rich must help the poor.

Many countries, including Canada, have already united to help the Asian subcontinent. Many institutions have been organized in the struggle to eradicate world hunger.

But their efforts are enfeebled by the nationalistic hunger for armaments and by the growing apathy and indifference of the well-fed towards those who have no food at all.

Even in India, where the government says that officially there is no famine — only drought — the impression carried away by visitors is that in the cities/starvation is seen as a remote thing dotting the distant countryside and that the more imminent danger is from the aggressive designs of Pakistan and China.

Thus India's new deputy prime minister, Morarji Desai, declares that "the integrity of the country comes first." There is to be no reduction in the defence budget of some $1,400,000,000. Even more military funds will have to be found.

The leadership is well aware that India suffers from many problems — failure to keep abreast of modern technology, an obsolete caste system, black marketeering, apathy and taboos that divert scarce grain to feed cattle, buffalo, horses and even rats.

Some experts suggest the situation in India reflects a world that produces too many people and not enough food. Populations must be controlled.

Others suggest the problem goes deeper — that much more could be done by the Indian people themselves to alleviate suffering and increase their food supplies. They must be better educated and be given firmer leadership.

And as the Pope suggests, a lot more can be done by wealthier countries to reduce the widening gap between the "haves" and the "have-nots." All that is needed is passive redirection of arms money.

Redirection is unlikely to come easy — despite the pleas of the Pope and other religious and political leaders.

Meanwhile democracy in India is under challenge. The overwhelming power of the ruling Congress party was almost shattered by recent national elections. The winds of change must come swiftly if inner stability is not to shatter into anarchy and chaos.

Red Guards Told to Study—and Revolt

Contradictory Orders Reflect Dilemma of Red China's Rulers

By ROBERT S. ELEGANT
From Hong Kong

China's adolescent Red Guards have just been told by no less an authority than the wife of Mao Tse-tung to behave themselves by going back to school and, at the same time, to "prosecute the great proletarian cultural revolution to the very end."

Those essentially contradictory instructions from Chiang Ching (Mme. Mao) contain the dilemma of the Maoist faction today: They can destroy their enemies — the "men in power" — only by perpetuating conditions of near chaos; but their own authority cannot survive amid chaos, and much less can the Chinese economic and social structure survive.

Chiang Ching told the Red Guards of Peking to resume their studies and to respect their teachers, most of whom are "good or comparatively good."

Studies, incidentally, now consist of little more than reciting the sayings of Mao Tse-tung, singing songs in his praise, and reading the latest utterances of the Communist party's organs, the Peking People's Daily and Red Flag.

About the same time, a Peking Red Guard wrote his uncle in Hong Kong that he had no intention of heeding orders to "return home and resume classes." Having been encouraged — nay, exhorted — to be disobedient, to "dare to rebel," the Red Guard was in no mood to be obedient. The Red Guards are a most sensitive barometer of the pressure of the cultural revolution the Maoists proclaimed almost a year ago in order to strengthen their power and enforce their policies.

The men in Peking have discovered that it is exceedingly difficult to entice the genie back into the bottle. Many Red Guards have refused to go back to the humdrum life of the schools, the factories, and the fields. "Making revolution" is so much more exciting, particularly when it is rewarded with great authority, free room and board — and unlimited travel.

The problem of the Red Guards will haunt the rulers of China for years to come. Even when they are successfully herded back to the writing-desk, the workbench, and the hoe, a generation indoctrinated with the belief that "rebellion is good" will remain an irritant to an authoritarian regime.

Mass meetings of workers, peasants and students in Peking have underlined the problem. Each group was given self-contradictory instructions. Like the Red Guards, they were told, on the one hand, to get back to their normal business and on the other to prosecute the cultural revolution to the bitter end.

The Maoist clique would very much like to have its revolution and cheat it too. The Maoists would like to maintain a functioning and expanding economy and, at the same time, to perpetuate extreme tension. Only by performing that remarkable balancing feat can they avoid surrender to their enemies — the managers and technicians of public administration and economic production.

The feat is beginning to appear beyond the Maoists' grasp. In one rural great peoples commune in Kwangtung province an entirely new set of officials is now in office. Of impeccably "proletarian" background, the former stewards of the poor peasants association have never questioned the sacred thought of Mao Tse-tung.

But they are quite illiterate. All directives from above must be read to them by despised "intellectuals" — in China the term means merely literate.

That, as someone once observed, is no way to run a railroad — nor a great peoples commune.

CURRENT EVENTS

By M. V. LIPTON

The case of Mr. Justice Leo Landreville of the Supreme Court of Ontario has again raised the contentious issue of appointment and dismissal of judges. Without reference to the Ontario jurist, let's examine the charges that "political backscratching" is often the basis on which men are appointed to a too-secure position on the bench.

The BNA Act stipulated that judges, with a few minor exceptions, are to be appointed by the governor-general. The appointment is made by order-in-council and is the special concern of the prime minister and the minister of justice.

Solicitor-General Lawrence Penfold has added that there are unofficial government consultations with the law societies of each province about judicial appointments. "I would suggest that they are of a negative character and that the federal officials may go to the law societies and say, 'Have you any complaints about this man?'"

I say this because it seems that after these consultations the result is nearly always the same. When a Liberal government is in power, Liberals become judges; when a Conservative government is in power, Conservatives become judges.

MP's Objections

These are the objections of NDP MP R. W. Pritchett. S. E. Fennell, one-time Canadian Bar Association president, believes integrity is frequently an overlooked qualification for judicial office. According to him, a standard of integrity is whether a person has ever been convicted of a criminal offence.

When party loyalty plays an almost inevitable role in the selection of judges, it has been argued that it undermines public confidence in the administration of justice and puts incompetent men on the bench. The patronage claim, however, has been refuted by numerous people.

Senator Malcolm Hollett (PC — Newfoundland) said he had never seen any better men than "those appointed to the bench in my province."

J. C. McRuer, former chief justice of Ontario, commenting on the idea that politics necessarily blights lawyers, recently asserted: "This has not been the case in England during the past century where most distinguished judges have been members of Parliament, nor has it been the case in Ontario during the last 60 years of which I can speak with some personal knowledge."

There is general agreement with the former chief justice's claim that political affiliation alone should be no reason for disqualification, but unquestionable integrity, gentlemanly behavior, good mental and physical health and a capacity to appreciate and resolve litigants' problems must be prime requisites.

Related Issue

This raises a related issue, the removal of judges from office. "There comes a time," according to Fennell, "without disrespect to the person, that he is incapable of discharging his duties. It is not his fault, but he just should not be there."

Some (judges) have too much of the bottle or are too far gone mentally and you can't get a resignation out of them."

Judges now must retire at age 75. They hold office during good behavior and can be fired by the governor-general only after a joint address of both Houses of Parliament.

An ex-CBA president does not think the House of Commons and the Senate are proper forums to decide the removal issue.

"If the conduct of a judge is called in question, his fitness for office should be placed before a committee of judges from provinces other than the one in which he sits."

It has been proposed that provincial committees, comprised of lawyers and other prominent citizens, submit names of judicial candidates from which the justice department would choose judges.

If committees were to recommend judicial appointments and to judge the competence of those already on the bench, who could pick and police the committees to prevent political influence from creeping in? Can you clearly evaluate a jurist's competence?

Some jurisdictions elect their judges. Why is this or is it not desirable?

Chinese Claims To Tibet Refuted

By B. C. NAG,
from New Delhi

Contrary to popular belief, Tibet has not always been a part of China.

Geographically, ethnically, linguistically and culturally a distinct entity, Tibet was an independent state until the middle of the 13th century. Tibetans are a mixed race of Hun Aryans and Mongolians. According to some ethnologists, Hungarians are a branch of the Tibetan race.

From the 6th to the 13th centuries kings of an Indian (Malla) dynasty ruled over Tibet. From the 7th to the 9th centuries, Tibet was at the height of its powers and Tibetan kings were the allies of the caliphs of Baghdad whom they helped with men and arms.

During these 300 years it was China and not Tibet which was at the receiving end in cultural interchange. It was largely through Tibet that China received the religion of Buddha and along with it Indian and Tibetan culture.

During this period Tibet carried its victorious arms far into India, Central Asia and China. In China it had time and again overrun a large part of the present provinces of Kansu, Szechwan and Yunnan, had even entered the capital of the Tang emperors and placed for a time a prince of its choice on the throne of China.

The Chinese claim on Tibet arises from China's former Mongol and Manchu masters' ancient right of suzerainty (feudalship) over the Himalayan Kingdom. Like Tibetans both Mongols and Manchus are ethnically, culturally and linguistically different from the Huns.

The legal basis of China's claim on Tibet is, therefore, complicated and arguable. China always recognized the suzerainty of the Tibetan Buddhist Church and paid the utmost reverence to its high priests. The great Mongol chief, Kublai Khan, himself a Buddhist, was a disciple of the chief Tibetan lama.

In 1260, the Khan made him his "imperial adviser" and recognized him as the head of the Buddhist faith. The relation between them was something like that of the Pope and a Roman Catholic king.

After conquering the whole of China, Kublai Khan extended his empire to the borders of Poland in Europe and Arabic deserts in Asia. At that time Tibet nominally formed part of his empire in the sense that the spiritual chief began to look after the latter's mundane affairs. This was the beginning of Chinese suzerainty over Tibet.

Different Chinese emperors of the Mongol and Ming dynasties exercised this suzerainty with occasional breaks until 1644. Earlier in 1630, with the powerful backing of the Mongols who conferred on the Tibetan high priest the title of the Dalai Lama Vajradhara (wielder of the thunderbolt), the high priest became both spiritual and temporal ruler of Tibet.

After the Mongols the Manchus came into power in China in 1644. The early Manchu emperors recognized the Dalai Lama as an independent sovereign. But from 1708 they began to exercise suzerainty over Tibet.

The Dalai Lama fled from his country and took shelter in India in February, 1910, when the Chinese again began to interfere in Tibetan affairs. In the meantime, the Nationalist revolution broke out under Dr. Sun Yat-sen and overthrew the Manchu rule. Tibet took this opportunity to drive away the Chinese from its soil and the Dalai Lama returned to Tibet.

In January, 1913, the Dalai Lama concluded a treaty with Outer Mongolia. Tibet maintained this independent status until the Chinese Communist takeover in 1959.

Trade Block Scored

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ray Perrault, provincial Liberal party leader, says eastern politicians who represent ridings containing tariff-protected industries are blocking free trade moves.

Mr. Perrault told a Simon Fraser University seminar on free trade Tuesday night that the federal government is negligent in not establishing an inquiry into Canada joining a free trade area.

"Trouble is that there are too many political parties and politicians who get votes from areas where there are protected industries," he said.

"I don't care which party it is. It's true of them all."

T. C. Douglas, national New Democratic Party leader, said Canada should aim for free trade with all nations, not just the United States.

"The immediate complete removal of tariffs and quotas between Canada and the U.S. would be like the lamb lying down with the lion," he said.

"The lamb would soon be inside the lion."

Only Question Is When

Nobody Will Be Broke In Automated Age

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—It now is being taken almost for granted here that the government intends—not this year or next but eventually—to introduce a program for a guaranteed annual minimum income for all Canadians.

Almost unnoticed, Welfare Minister MacEachen, with the approval of Prime Minister Pearson, has been discussing publicly how such a program might be implemented.

UNDEE STUDY

On Jan. 30 in the Commons, Mr. Pearson made a brief statement in reply to an opposition question which indicated that the question is when—not whether—guaranteed annual incomes for all will be established.

He said: "The broader aspects of the matter are still under consideration and will require a great deal of study before a guaranteed income can be implemented in this country."

PILOT PLAN

The principle of guaranteed minimum income has already been implemented for at least one group of Canadians—the aged. The minimum is $105 a month or $1,260 a year.

Mr. MacEachen says: "This will give us information which will help us to determine whether such a policy is feasible for the general population."

Payments under a guaranteed annual income program would be based on a single criterion: a person's income. And they could be made without subjecting recipients to various kinds of means tests.

The philosophy of a guaranteed annual income is based to some extent at least on the expectation that leisure time, wanted or not, will increase enormously with the spread of automation.

Dredging Need Disclosed

Low tide at noon Wednesday in West Bay gave good view of shallow water and resulting need for dredging job being carried out for federal government. West Bay Marina and Hilarious Boat Works. One of first in government's small harbor development aid plan, $75,000 project, will provide extensive boat basin where approaches have been almost impossible at low tide.—(William E. Selin)

Provincial Power Needs Push Peace Construction

WENATCHEE, Wash. (CP)—Resources Minister Ray Williams of British Columbia said Wednesday statisticians had underestimated B.C.'s power needs and the full potential of the vast Peace River hydro-electric project in the northern part of the province will have to be developed within eight years.

This would be five to 10 years sooner than originally estimated.

"The projected growth rate upon which our planning is based has been set at eight per cent per year," he told the 27th annual conference of the Northwest Public Power Association.

BIG INCREASE

B.C.'s increase in electrical energy consumption in 1966 was 18 per cent, he said.

"Whenever British Columbia officials look at growth statistics they adopt a conservative attitude and imply that what they read is not really related to the truth. The so-called unusual (growth-rate) situation has now persisted for more than 10 years during which time B.C. hydro's annual growth rate has averaged better than 10 per cent," Mr. Williams said.

MORE GENERATORS

He said a short time ago only three generators were to be installed in the first stage of development at the Peace, giving the project a production capacity of only 600,000 kilowatts.

"Actual contracts have now been called for five and preliminary steps are being taken to call tenders for another two."

"Rather than just two, a suggestion has been made that a staggered tender be called for the remaining five."

CONSTANT WORK

"My own guess is that we will be in a state of constant construction and installation until the whole job is finished—around 1975."

"By this I mean that site one will be built as well. This is located some miles downstream and is a run-of-the-river plant with a capacity of approximately 700,000 kilowatts."

No Papers Friday

NEW YORK (AP)—Contracts between five New York City major daily newspapers and 10 unions expire at midnight tonight and one union leader said a strike is "as likely as not."

If a strike comes it would be the fifth newspaper walkout here in less than four years.

Since Nov. 1, 1962, some or all of the city's major dailies have been shut down by strikes for a total of 41 weeks, or an average of one out of every five weeks.

During that time the number of major dailies here shrank to six from nine.

Negotiations continued between the newspapers and the unions Wednesday in an effort to avert another strike.

Four of the unions "are prepared to go on strike" after their contracts expire, said Thomas J. Murphy, chairman of the Newspaper Union Council and executive vice-president of the New York Newspaper Guild.

He said these are the printers, electricians, deliverers and machinists.

Two other unions, the photo-engravers and the mailers, are due to meet before the contract deadline to vote on strike action.

He said the Morrow Report was "very fully studied by an all-party committee of the legislature and the committee's report was presented to the legislature just before the session ended."

"I am sure that all members of the legislature will wish to study the committee's report before making any further comment on the Morrow recommendations," Mr. Bonner concluded.

John Tisdalle, Social member for Saanich and The Islands, said he would be sorry to see Mr. Shelford leave the party.

"The government over the years has been enhanced by men like him," he said, "and we would be much the poorer without him.

"The strength of this government," he added, "is based in the minds of the people, on the fact that we are not under regimentation. I hope the government will take a second look at what Mr. Shelford considers the inadequacies."

Afghani Officials CIA Men

NEW YORK (UPI)—Ramparts magazine charged Wednesday that the Central Intelligence Agency is bribing and black-mailing foreign students in the United States to spy against their homelands and paying some of them up to $10,000 a year to become traitors.

Ramparts, which touched off the storm over CIA bankrolling of American student organizations, said in an article signed "by the editors" that cabinet-level officials in the Afghanistan government "are either CIA-trained or indoctrinated" as a result of recruitment while studying in the United States.

In giving Afghanistan as an example of CIA subversion, Ramparts quoted a young Afghani, Abdul Latif Hotaki, who refused CIA agents' offers of money and scholarship aid on several occasions. As a result, the magazine said, the immigration service has been trying to deport him for several years although he has an American wife and two children.

VICTORIA, B.C.—Once there was a Volvo with an ordinary 99,999 mile odometer. It lasted so long the company took to referring to it as "Old Friend" and last year they phased it out of production after 23 years to make room for more "Young Friend" Volvos, the 122 model. Swedes and other people kept these cars so long that when they sold them the buyers couldn't really tell whether their "new" used Volvos had covered 40,000 miles (just barely broken in properly), 140,000 miles (usually a very healthy used car if properly cared for), 240,000 or even 340,000 miles (perhaps pretty tired even for a car as tough as a Volvo) and since most Volvos go through several hands before hitting their 11-year optional retirement age, Volvo sales engineers thought it only fair to do something for these future owners. They specified a 999,999-mile odometer.

Esquimalt Area Rezoned

Industrial Park Approved

The concept of a 44-acre industrial park in Esquimalt cleared its last hurdle Tuesday as Esquimalt council passed a bylaw rezoning from multiple dwelling to industrial nine lots on Devonshire Road.

The action followed a hearing before the council meeting.

Council will soon receive a scale model of the proposed development, a gift from the chamber of commerce.

Chamber president Ian Andersen said seven chamber members had worked for three months on the model, which covers three sheets of plywood.

It represents the existing and proposed buildings on a scale of one inch to 16 feet.

Presentation will be made to council April 11.

Lichen was imported from Norway and model cars specially built in Toronto for the project, which Mr. Andersen said will be of particular use to the municipality's planning committee, and to the engineer.

"We also plan on setting up an industrial commission in Esquimalt," said Mr. Andersen. "It will consist of seven members—three businessmen, the engineer and three council representatives."

He said owners of industries already in the area will be altering the appearance of their buildings in keeping with the park concept, and new buildings would be encouraged to use architecture that would conform with other buildings.

HOMES AROUND
"We have to remember at all times that this industrial area will be surrounded by residential lots," he said.

During the public hearing Cave Street residents objected to the rezoning on the grounds of possible devaluation of property, and of excessive traffic.

Frederick Halliwell, 782 Cave, said that even with the amount of industry already in the area, residents were subjected to the noise of heavy equipment from 6:30 a.m. to 10 or 11 at night.

SAME ATTITUDE
He suggested council was taking the same attitude that had been taken by the provincial government at Butte Lake:

"Never mind the little man—we want the money."

Up-to-Date Sign Defacing Major Erasing Problem

Gerry

Four-letter epithets emblazoned on sign posts are costly to erase in the era of the felt pen and the spray paint can, according to Esquimalt municipal engineer William Gerry.

He told council this week that in future signposts would be set upon galvanized or aluminum poles which would present a smaller writing surface than the present cedar posts.

SIGHT PROBLEM?
Council received a letter from J. A. O'Malley, 1210 Old Esquimalt Road, complaining about the words on signposts in front of his house, where his two small daughters and passing schoolchildren could see them.

He complained in particular of words "emblazoned on a post which in gutter language for all who can read tell them to go away."

He also suggested the local school principals and teachers must travel with white canes, as they apparently weren't aware of the amount of litter thrown about by schoolchildren.

The letter said "offal, lunch bags and candy wrappers" were strewn on the surrounding lots.

PROMPT REPAINTING
This he felt came under the teachers' jurisdiction," he said.

Mr. Gerry said his department always repainted signs as soon as they had reports of any writing on them.

"The era of the felt pen and the spray can is costing us a great deal of money," he said.

"They are completely defacing huge signs such as checker boards, and we have a continual stream of signs being brought in for repainting."

Coun. Arthur Meib suggested a $5 reward for schoolchildren who would "turn in" offending painters.

It was decided to refer the defacing of signs to the police chief, and the litter complaints to school principals.

OTHER BUSINESS
In other council business it was decided to:

• Approve a contract with the SPCA at a cost of $4,768 to Esquimalt on a trial basis, despite some misgivings about the collection of dog licence fees with the SPCA having a guaranteed operational grant.

• Approved the budget of the Juvenile Detention Home.

• Decided to budget $46,966 ($3.50 per capita) against costs of the Greater Victoria Library.

• Accepted a recommendation with the approval of the police chief for the appointment of a full-time court officer to the Family and Children's Court.

• Approved the erection of a banner across Fraser Street to advertise Esquimalt Garden Club flower shows, if there were no objections from municipal solicitors.

• Heard a report that 19 of 27 lots on the Rockheights subdivision had now been sold.

You Can Help Your Heart To Live Longer

Many people worry about their hearts needlessly... others don't give them enough consideration. What happens when you feel your heart "skip" a beat... how do nightmares affect your heart... are dizzy spells caused by your heart... can you have a heart attack without knowing it... how does excessive weight and heavy cigarette smoking tax your heart? In an arresting article in the April Reader's Digest a famous author lets the heart itself tell the story of its life and how man should listen to its advice and how he can actually help it live longer. Read "I Am Joe's Heart" in April Reader's Digest—it could help you live longer.

Should a "non-swinger" visit swinging Britain?

Yes. Very definitely! Because Britain is just as lively or leisurely as you care to make it. It's simply a matter of choice. Some of our passengers fly to Britain for a swinging vacation. Others prefer the things which are uniquely British—the friendly pubs, the gentle countryside. The pomp. The pageantry.

Only BOAC with Air Canada flies direct to Britain, and this summer we offer you the choice of up to 12 jet services a day from Toronto and Montreal. And there are several flights a week from western Canada, including direct Western Arrow services to London.

Plan your trip now. See your BOAC travel agent and he'll get swinging with all the necessary arrangements.

One Dissenting Vote

Rezoning for Latch Advanced by Sidney

A bylaw amendment to permit rezoning of the Latch estate in Sidney passed its third reading Tuesday night with only one dissenting vote.

Ald. Norma Sealey cast the vote against the amendment, which will permit property owner John Graeme to go ahead with his plans for a marina, apartment buildings and residential properties on 10 acres of seaside land.

The zoning proposal met with stiff resistance from property owners on All Bay and Reithaven.

TWO HEARINGS
Sidney council held two public hearings on the subject, and the rezoning died out in the second meeting as property owners concerned themselves with utilities, design of buildings and other matters not concerned with zoning.

Developer Graeme, who owns the historic house that was once the home of Lieutenant-Governor Pearless wife, tried to reconcile the property owners, assuring them he was concerned with the appearance of the place and the desirability of conserving the trees.

He pointed out the present zoning, mostly residential and some commercial, would permit him to break it up into residential lots and necessitate the removal of trees.

VOTE CHANGED
In the first two readings of the amendment before the council, Ald. W. W. Gardner lined up with Ald. Sealey in opposing it, but it passed by a 3-2 majority.

Had Ald. Gardner remained opposed Tuesday night, the amendment would have died, since it required a 4-1 vote to pass.

Council set a special meeting for 7 p.m. today for the fourth and final reading.

RECREATION STUDY
Following the rezoning vote, the council went into a lengthy discussion of recreation.

The council was split on the subject of recreation, and a vote for tentative support of the principle of a regional study of recreation needs required the vote of Mayor Arthur Freeman to pass 3-2.

Our Principals

Pupils Must Feel Needed

Like thousands of Victorians, Jack (and that's his real name) Chatfield, principal of Tolmie Elementary, is a transplanted prairie native. He was born in Calgary and started school there when the Killarney district was mostly open country.

His family came to Victoria in 1925, and Mr. Chatfield took Grade 8 at Langson and 9, 10 and 11 at Esquimalt High.

After two years at "the Castle" (Victoria College) he took teacher training at Landsowne Normal School and followed the usual route: to the far places.

His first post was three years at Parklands school at Farmington, 18 miles north of Dawson Creek.

Taught Parents

Most of his pupils were from Czech and Polish families newly come to Canada, and Mr. Chatfield started one of B.C.'s early night schools, teaching the parents to speak English.

Returning to Saanich, Mr. Chatfield started at Cloverdale but finished that term at West Saanich school in Brentwood, then spent a year at Royal Oak. He was principal of Prospect Lake for a year, then vice-principal at Cloverdale.

In 1942 he joined the Canadian army, spending a year with the ordnance corps in Vancouver and then going overseas, where he was posted to No. 1 Educational Company.

Wide Range

This work he found highly interesting, for it ranged from teaching men who couldn't do either to read and write, up to all the higher level courses made available through the Canadian Legion. Tours and visits to almost every British industry and profession were also available.

Back home in 1946, Mr. Chatfield was principal at Craigflower for six years, at McKenzie Avenue for four, and is now in his 11th year at Tolmie.

Somewhere along the way, like so many others, he gained his BA and BED through summer courses at UBC.

Reading and travel are his prime hobbies, the first including professional works as well as reading for relaxation.

Seeing B.C.

The second centres on the family trailer in which he, his wife and four children see as much country as possible. They also spend part of each year on property he owns on the Sooke River, near the potholes.

Mr. Chatfield is convinced of the importance of a personal touch between teacher and pupil, and principal and pupil. He wants every youngster in his school to feel he matters; to feel that he is known as a person, and that there's something he can do for the school.

"The quality of the teacher is vital in this respect," Mr. Chatfield says, "and I have a wonderful staff." — W.M.S.

Youth Ran Home

Flying Lights
Too Close
To Mt. Tolmie

A display of floating objects over Victoria Wednesday sent a young man running all the way home, scared.

The young man was standing on top of Mount Tolmie with several other people when he saw them. He said he hadn't believed what he read in the paper about flying objects and had purposely gone up the mountain to see for himself. He asked that his name not be used.

Three other young men—Gary Calder of North Vancouver, Ted Waring, of 4038 Brafoot, and Terry Rose, of 3970 Blenkinsop—saw a single object coming out of the west and kept it under observation between 9:30 and 9:45 p.m.

The three were on Blenkinsop Road near Braetoot when they saw it.

"It would accelerate, then slow down. It was orange but would flash red from time to time. It seemed to get bigger, then smaller. It made no noise," said Mr. Calder.

ORANGE FLASHES
The youth on top of Mount Tolmie said he saw between 11 and 15 objects all somewhat the same.

The first appeared over Gordon Head at 7:55 p.m. and was flashing red as it flew over the city and disappeared over the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

Ten minutes later he saw a series of orange flashes that "lit the Victoria sky."

STEADY RED

About a half hour later he saw a lighted object come from behind Mount Douglas flashing red and green lights. When the object hovered, the objects stopped flashing and became a steady red.

He saw several similar objects.

What really scared him was an object that flew over Mount Tolmie at an estimated 400 feet. It made no noise and was oval-shaped.

PROJECTION

"I could tell it was oval-shaped because of the lights reflecting on it. It carried two bright green and two white lights. I think there was a projection coming from the bottom of the craft," he said.

There were other craft, he said, but he didn't stay around to see them.

"I was scared. I ran all the way home," he said breathlessly into the phone.

By A. H. MURPHY
City Hall Reporter

Satisfied that the B.C. Forest Products smoke-fly ash nuisance is "vastly improved," city council's air pollution committee has declared a three-month truce with the firm.

At the same time, however, a "get tough policy" has been ordered to control the smoke from vessels which use the Inner Harbor.

The committee chairman, Ald. Robert Baird, along with Smoke Inspector Sam Mottishaw, will enlist the support of the mayor and, probably, try to get some action through the harbormaster, it was indicated Wednesday.

'STRAIGHT SOOT'

Mr. Mottishaw said that when the CPR fired up one of its vessels "straight soot" poured out of the funnels. The CNR's Canora was another offender although he expected it would be changed over to diesel fuel this year.

Black smoke from a vessel was simply "aloppiness" on the part of the engineering crew, said Capt. W. B. Holmes. If proper precautions were taken and "know-how" used there would be no such nuisance.

'GET TOUGH'

Told that the city might not have jurisdiction in federal waters, Ald. Baird said: "Well, let's get tough anyway. I have no confidence that the federal government will do anything to clean up the situation. We need a local ordinance with teeth in it."

LETTERS COMING

A number of complaining letters about B.C. Forest Products Ltd. was received by the advisory committee.

Mill manager Herbert Barnes said it was hard to know just what the complainants expected.

"We are meeting the terms of the local bylaw with relation to fly ash and color of smoke. We are discharging our legal responsibilities. Surely that's all we can be expected to do," he said.

SOUND POSITION

This didn't mean that the mill staff would not continue trying to improve the situation — it would—but it should be realized that the firm was in a sound legal position and conforming to the provisions of the city's bylaw.

Assistant City Engineer William N. Jorgensen supported Mr. Barnes. The situation had been improved tremendously over the years, he said.

OPEN INCINERATORS

Open incinerators were another source of air pollution in the district, T. E. Dickson pointed out.

"Well, this is forced upon you if you live in Saanich," A. G. Coning said. "With garbage collections every two weeks one has to burn a lot of garbage, particularly packaging material, to get rid of it."

At the end of three months, during which tests will be taken, the smoke inspector will make an assessment of the B.C. Forest Products situation and report back to the air pollution advisory committee.

New Gorge Bridge

Overhead Wiring Opposed

B.C. Hydro is planning overhead wires over the new Gorge Bridge, according to Esquimalt Chamber of Commerce president Ian Andersen.

"I have reason to believe," Mr. Andersen said this week, "that B.C. Hydro has asked permission to erect overhead wires across the new Gorge Bridge. "I feel that after spending money to build a new four-lane bridge, it would be a shame to have a mass of wires tangling overhead."

"Now, when building is starting, would be a good time to get all those wires buried underground on both the Saanich and Esquimalt sides."

A spokesman for the B.C. Hydro said Wednesday the company's engineering department was still discussing plans for the crossing, and no definite plans had been approved.

Gordon Ralston, industrial representative for Hydro, said the engineering department is considering some form of duct in the bridge itself that will permit the wiring to be concealed, rather than overhead.

The plans, however, will be dependent on financial arrangements and negotiations with the provincial highways department, Mr. Ralston said.

Super-Tankers Ply Strait

Oil Threat Always With City

Tankers much larger than the one which unleashed tides of oil on the English coast regularly pass within sight of Vancouver Island.

And if one of them cracked up on a reef, it could have the same disastrous effects on this island's beaches and marine life.

"It's a threat, all right," Larry Slaght, district marine agent in Victoria, said Wednesday afternoon.

"Even a tanker smaller than the one which hit a reef off Southern England could produce a disastrous situation if it hit a reef."

The 38,562-ton tanker Torrey Canyon split amidships

Monday, sending toward the picturesque coast of Cornwall and other resort areas a huge quantity of oil.

Mr. Slaght said that while no tankers come into Victoria, many of about 50,000 tons load and unload at Vancouver and Seattle.

"We could get that oil on our beaches if one of those ships went off course and hit a reef," he added.

The English are trying to fight the oil invasion with hundreds of thousands of gallons of detergents, but fears have arisen that those chemicals will kill marine life.

What could be done if such a flood of dense oil started heading toward Vancouver Island?

Harold Edworthy, chairman of the board of Island Tug & Barge, Ltd., says the English are attacking it the right way.

"But there are so many 'ifs' in this thing that I wouldn't want to get into a controversy."

Province Joins Guards
With Colors Ceremony

A company of the Regiment of Canadian Guards will be given its distinctive B.C. flavor at 10 a.m. today with the presentation of Company Colors on the lawn of the legislative buildings by Lieutenant-Governor Peakes.

Number 11 Company of the Ontario-based regiment will henceforth be known as the B.C. affiliated company and will carry colors bearing the emblem of the province.

The colors have been approved by the College of Arms in England and Mr. Peakes will make the presentation today on behalf of the province.

The regiment will be represented by 65 members of the 2nd Battalion and regimental band from Petawawa, Ont. They will wear bearskin headgear.

Each of the regiment's companies has become affiliated with a province or city of Canada. Ceremonies took place in Winnipeg, Regina and Edmonton this week.

The Number 11 Company Colors are midnight blue silk 20 1/2 inches by 18 1/2 inches, bearing the half-

THE DAILY BRITISH COLONIST

March 30, 1867

A telegram from New Westminster, at nine o'clock last evening, announced that the Council had been in session since ten o'clock in the morning discussing the Capital Message.

There can be no doubt that the Island members and their Cariboo compatriot, Mr. Walkem, will have the matter fully ventilated before they leave the chamber and will plainly express the feelings of their constituents upon this last insulting and incorrect gubernatorial document.

In consequence of the length of the debate our reporter was unable to reach the telegraph office in time to transmit a despatch.

Hardy and Haffard, the brace of beauties who were arrested upon suspicion of being chronic thieves and were liberated for one week upon their own recognizance, failed to appear yesterday and their bail was ordered to be returned. Should they appear again they will be dealt with as rogues and vagabonds.

Unless Reasons Academic-Grad Students

Dismissals Opposed

The University of Victoria's graduate students issued a statement Wednesday opposing the dismissal of faculty members for any other reasons than academic ones.

The 40-member Graduate Student Society voiced "growing dismay" over the current controversy around the dismissal of faculty members Dr. Charles Taylor, J. S. Schwartz and Alan Mackenzie.

But the group said it does not intend to participate in any boycott of classes by undergraduates.

The society's letter said, in part:

"While we recognize the right of the administration concerning the renewal of contracts without consulting the student body, we believe that the only legitimate reasons for not rehiring faculty members should be academic ones."

"The abilities of each person as a teacher and a scholar should not be overshadowed by considerations of personality even when the individual is disruptive or critical of the university."

The administration has given no reasons for the dismissals.

The administration will make its first formal statement at a joint faculties meeting next Tuesday.

On Wednesday university president Malcolm Taylor will address a mass meeting of students.

Canadiens Take Slim Hold On Second Place

TORONTO & MONTREAL
DETROIT & NEW YORK

Montreal Canadiens defeated Toronto Maple Leafs, 5-3, Wednesday night in a wide-open National Hockey League game and took over second place in the standings with a one-point edge and only two games to go.

New York Rangers also climbed in the standings to third place when they dumped Detroit Red Wings, 10-6. Toronto now holds fourth place, a point back of the Rangers.

It was Montreal's ninth straight game without a defeat. In the 14 matches so far between the two clubs, each has won six games with two tied.

TREMBLAY LED WAY

Jean-Claude Tremblay paced the Montreal attack in the hotly contested game, scoring one goal and assisting on two others.

Other marksmen for Montreal were Jean Guy Talbot, Gilles Tremblay, Yves Courmoyer and Leon Rochefort. Larry Hillman, Red Kelly and Mike Watson replied for Toronto. It was Claude Boyer's 34th of the year and 13th on the power play.

FERGUSON TOPS LOU

Montreal winger John Ferguson picked up three penalties to boost his total to 171 minutes as far this season, breaking the club record set in 1961-62 by former Canadian Lou Fontinato, a scrappy defenseman who had 167 minutes.

After Rochefort had scored Montreal's fourth goal, Toronto's coach Punch Imlach replaced Terry Sawchuk with Johnny Bower. Imlach then pulled Bower in favor of an extra forward with 2:31 remaining in the game but Montreal failed to score in the empty net.

TWO NAT-TRICKS

Donnie Marshall and Red Gilbert fired three goals each and Ken Schinkel added two as the Rangers pounded the Red Wings. Marshall began the rout by scoring on New York's first shot of the game and then scored two goals inside of 26 seconds in the third period.

George Gardner replaced Roger Crozier at the start of the second period and New York scored against him with its first shot of the period, this time by Gilbert.

Atlanta's Luckless Braves One-Upped for Eighth Time

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Atlanta Braves continued to have one-run trouble Wednesday, losing their eighth exhibition game by that margin, 3-2 to Houston when the Astros' Joe Morgan hit an eighth inning home.

Larry Dierker of Houston and

worked the first seven innings and yielded two runs. Doug Rader also hit a bases-empty homer for the Astros.

Don Clendenon's two homers, plus two 18th inning runs on three singles and a sacrifice fly paced Pittsburgh Pirates past Chicago White Sox 6-4. Bob

In other games, Boston Red Sox slipped St. Louis Cardinals 3-2; Los Angeles Dodgers edged Kansas City Athletics 3-2; New York Mets downed Cincinnati Reds 5-3; Cleveland Indians edged by California Angels 3-1; Detroit Tigers topped Philadelphia Phillies 6-2 and the San Francisco Giants—Chicago Cubs game was cancelled because of rain.

Carl Yastrzemski hit two homers and drove in six runs and Joe Foy doubled home three more in Boston's victory. Mike Shannon of St. Louis drove in four runs on a pair of homers and two singles. Orlando Cepeda also homered for St. Louis.

Bob Bailey hit a two-run homer in the first inning in Los Angeles' victory over Kansas City. Don Drysdale pitched the first six innings for the Dodgers, giving up both Kansas City runs.

WILLIE DAVIS HURT

Los Angeles centerfielder Willie Davis sprained his left ankle while trying to steal second and will be sidelined for seven to nine days.

The Mets scored all five runs in the fifth inning off Cincinnati's Mel Queen, as seven men got hits, including Ron Swoboda who tripled.

Two unearned runs in the fifth inning gave Cleveland its victory. The second one came home when shortstop Jackie Hernandez fumbled. Gus Gil's grounder, Rich Reichardt homered for California.

DETROIT broke a 1-1 tie in the eighth inning when the Tigers scored three times on doubles by George Kintner and Dick McAuliffe and three singles.

New Brunswick Rink Paces Senior Curling

MONTREAL (CP)—New Brunswick enters today's seventh round of play in the national seniors curling championship in sole possession of first place after rebounding from a fifth-round loss in fine fashion.

Skip Jim Murphy's Thistle Club rink now holds a 5-1 record after besting Saskatchewan's Hazen Pond of Prince Albert 11-4 in the sixth round. The loss left Saskatchewan with a 3-2 record.

Alberta, which had a bye in the sixth round, is in sole possession of second place with a 4-1 mark.

Ontario and British Columbia both won their evening matches to move into a tie for third with 2-2 records.

Ontario's Carl Amussen from Kitchener, set a record when he blanked Jack McCarthy from St. John's, Nfld., 15-0. It marked the first time in the three-year history of the seniors that a rink failed to score.

B.C. WINS

British Columbia's entry from Vancouver Curling Club, skippered by Frank Avery, defeated Northern Ontario 14-7.

The loss left the Northern Ontario rink of Arnold Chisnell from Sudbury with a 2-1 record while Amussen's crushing win over McCarthy left Newfoundland at 1-4.

Manitoba equalled Saskatchewan's 3-2 record by winning a narrow 6-4 victory over Dr. Wren MacDonald of Prince Edward Island in the evening round. P.E.I. has a 2-4 record.

Quebec won an extra-end victory over Nova Scotia as Skip Perry of Montreal West stood off a bid by Mel Armstrong to come through with the win. The loss left Nova Scotia without a win with six rounds of play completed.

O'Keefes, Scottish To Clash Saturday

Victoria O'Keefes, winner of the Pacific Coast Soccer League championship, will play Canadian Scottish, leader in the Victoria and District first division, at Macdonald Park Saturday.

But Scottish could find themselves in second place when the weekend is over. University of Victoria Vikings, a point back in second place, will play Hurligan Kickers at Heywood Ave. Park Sunday.

Hurligan are third in the league, three points behind the Vikings.

The other first division game Sunday has the two bottom teams clashing at Central Gorge Molsons and Luckies.

In second division play Sunday, Victoria West plays Colony at Upper Topaz and London Boxing meets Gorge at Lower Topaz.

Optimists After B.C. Title

The Evening Optimists

juvenile boys' basketball team will play Kelowna Friday and Saturday in a two-game total point series for the B.C. title.

Both games will be played at Central Junior High, with Friday's game beginning at 8 p.m. and Saturday's game at 2:30 p.m.

Leafs Puzzle Fans Torpedo Canucks

VANCOUVER & VICTORIA

By JIM TANG

If the 1,964 fans at Memorial Arena last night were thinking about anything in particular it must have been about what might have been.

Make that should have been. When the 60 minutes of Western Hockey League action was over it was hard to believe that the game had started with Victoria Maple Leafs out of playoff contention and Vancouver Canucks still fighting for second place.

Although not producing their best effort, the Leafs were clearly the better club as they ended Canucks' hopes for the runner-up spot and almost certainly doomed the Mainlanders to a semi-final series against Portland Buckaroos.

CONCEDED TWO

Conceding the first two goals

somewhat against the run of early play, the Leafs tied it up before the first period was over.

And after a desultory second period, romped to a 5-2 victory in a fashion which left everyone believing the wrong club was in the playoffs.

It was the sixth straight victory for the Leafs in an odd series. The Canucks won the first five games in convincing fashion but since then have been nothing but a slump-ender or a streak-sustainer for the Leafs.

BUCKS IN REACH

Seattle Totems can still tie the Buckaroos by defeating the Buckaroos and Vancouver in their two last games. If the Leafs can take the Buckaroos here Saturday night.

Odds against that are long enough but if it should happen, first place will be decided by the net difference between goals for and goals against.

With two games left for both clubs, Portland has a plus 45 mark and the Totems are plus 34, meaning that the Totems have to make up 11 goals.

It took the Leafs a bit of time last night before they salvaged their self-respect. But they finally did it with a combination of excellent goalkeeping by Al Smith and break-out third period hockey which made the final margin a fair one.

Canucks broke away from the gauntlet attack with Ray Brunel carrying the puck. He was forced to take a long shot but Dave Dolan managed to backhand the puck.

After Bryan Hextall had been stopped on a try with the first.

Then, after Mike Laughton had found an upright, Canucks clinched again with Marc Dufour getting clear on a smart play just at the midway point of the first period.

Mike Marcotte, on a power play, and Laughton got it squared before the first period was over but the Leafs could have been bad in the middle 20 minutes.

Bruce Carmichael got what proved to be the winner shortly after Laughton returned from serving the remnants of a second-period penalty.

Bob Barlow got the puck at mid-ice in the first minute and didn't make the Canucks a two-on-one break.

WITTEN BREAKS FAST

Then Steve Wittin blocked a shot on a Vancouver power play and showed he could find the quick break which has made him one of the top all-time scorers in the WHL.

He left two Canucks stranded as he swooped on the puck near mid-ice, raced in and beat Don Simmons from about 12 feet.

It was the decisive hit that the Leafs ended it with a flourish with a bang-bang play in which Barlow and Carmichael collaborated in getting the puck to Laughton in the clear on the right side.

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—University of British Columbia Jayvees built up a strong lead in the second quarter and went on to defeat Montreal Orpheids 23-7 to win the Canadian Junior Basketball championship Wednesday night.

UBC, defending national champions, won four straight games in the seven-team double-elimination tournament, including two against Montreal. Orpheids fell 23-7 to the high-flying Jayvees Tuesday night.

The B.C. team, coached by Dr. Norman Watt, scored 13 points without a reply at one stage on the second quarter to move ahead by 17 points. They led 41-34 at half time.

Sam Vandermeulen, the only player on the UBC lineup for the second year in a row, shot 27 points in leading the Jayvees to their 11th win of the season. They have lost four.

Centre-forward Tom Miller gave the Firefighters a 1-0 lead at the 33-minute mark, kicking in his own rebound. Inside-left Ed Cannon got the second goal at 22 minutes of the second half on a pass from winger Dave Hutton.

Victoria has already won up the league championship and Vancouver Columbus is assured second place.

The B.C. team, coached by Dr. Norman Watt, scored 13 points without a reply at one stage on the second quarter to move ahead by 17 points. They led 41-34 at half time.

Sam Vandermeulen, the only player on the UBC lineup for the second year in a row, shot 27 points in leading the Jayvees to their 11th win of the season. They have lost four.

Centre-forward Tom Miller gave the Firefighters a 1-0 lead at the 33-minute mark, kicking in his own rebound. Inside-left Ed Cannon got the second goal at 22 minutes of the second half on a pass from winger Dave Hutton.

Victoria has already won up the league championship and Vancouver Columbus is assured second place.

'Knives' Raid Canton

HONG KONG (UPI) — Chinese army troops have moved into Canton to crush strong opposition to Mao Tse-tung spearheaded by an armed organization known as the "August 1 Fighting Corps." Reliable sources reported Wednesday.

The anti-Mao organization, which included a "sharp knife company," raided party and government offices, attacked police stations, kidnapped prominent officials, held kangaroo trials and "furnished intelligence information" to an espionage network in Hong Kong.

No Champagne

French N-Sub Afloat

CHERBOURG (UPI) — President de Gaulle Wednesday pushed a little green button and then snapped off a smart salute as France's first nuclear-powered submarine, the Redoutable, slipped down the ways and into the water.

The traditional bottle of champagne was missing at the launching ceremony for the newest weapon in de Gaulle's "Force de Frappe." But there was the president himself, some 200 miles from Paris, bands, flags, crowds and speeches.

BEST TOKEN

The sleek black hull of the Redoutable, which will be armed with 16 nuclear warhead ballistic missiles, slid down the greased slide at this English Channel seaport moments after Defence Minister Pierre Messmer said it would give France "The best token of security, independence and peace."

De Gaulle saluted but made no remarks as the 43-foot submarine tasted seawater for the first time and the band played The Marseillaise and the crowds cheered.

EVERYBODY UP

Tight security precautions were in effect. De Gaulle flew here from Paris in the presidential French-made Caravelle jetliner. At 6:30 a.m., before his arrival, security police roused sleeping guests in every hotel in the city to check their identity papers.

U.S. Plane Cements U.K. Link

LONDON (AP) — Britain today intends to order 40 more U.S. F-111 aircraft, bringing her total expenditure on the swing-wing fighter-bomber to nearly $1,500,000,000.

The decision, confirmed Wednesday night by government sources, packs far-reaching implications for the country's defence and political relationships.

It will inextricably link Britain's air power and strategic planning with the Americans at least until the mid-1970s.

It will underline the resolve of Prime Minister Wilson's government to continue an active military role east of Suez in defiance of rising demands from within his own Labor party for a pullout.

It will provide President de Gaulle of France with another argument that the British are so close to the Americans that they do not yet rate membership in the European Common Market.

Britain bought 10 F-111s last year with an option to order another 40, for delivery in 1969, by Saturday.

NATO Force Grows

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada has allotted another battalion group to the NATO defence complex, it was announced here Wednesday, but the move may mean the first step in a change of her agreements on European defence commitments.

The new addition, which places a Canadian based battalion group for use on the southern flank with the Allied Command Europe mobile force could lead to the gradual return of Canada's standing forces in Europe to Canadian soil.

Thus, the soil must be broken down finely, without any coarse lumps — the "fine tilth" so often mentioned in the garden books — so each seed will lie in close and intimate contact with the soil particles and with the fine film of

An old trick of the Old Country professional gardener was to dress the soil surface with soot which, being black, absorbs more of the sun's rays. My own technique, in dealing with sticky clay soil, is to mix a fair amount of peat moss into the top two inches where the seeds are to be sown. Dry peat, acting like blotting paper, sops up the excess moisture in the soil and brings it into nice condition for seed sowing.

Easter Lilies For Wedding

An exquisite sheath gown of Sonesta, encased with sheer organza, was worn by Wendy Hallam Stevenson Brown when she became the bride of Simon Francis Nankivell.

Delicate daisy appliques of Gaius lace circled the gently floating skirt and were echoed on the sheer cathedral train which swept back from the shoulders. Similar accents outlined the jewel neckline and enhanced the long angel sleeves. A small cap of matching daisies held her softly misted veil of silk illusion net. She carried white marguerites in her bouquet.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rowland de M. Brown, 728 Sea Drive, Brentwood Bay, and the groom is the grandson of Mrs. John H. Nankivell, 1733 Fairfield Road, and the late Cmdr. Nankivell, R.N.

Arrangements of Easter lilies, spring flowers and greenery decorated Brentwood College Memorial Chapel for the service conducted by Archdeacon E. H. Maddocks.

Mr. Brown gave his daughter in marriage and Glenn Oliphant was organist.

Pink sparkle organza trimmed with daisy appliques enclosed the sheath gowns of peau de sole worn by the bride's three attendants. Their headpieces were of tulle and organza and they carried white daisies in their bouquets.

Miss Penelope Brown was maid of honor for her sister, and bridesmaids were the Misses Nancy Tidman and the bride's cousin, Meredith MacKay.

Best man was Gordon Burleson. Ushering the guests to their pews were Donald Bell, John White and Gerald Moore.

T. G. Denny proposed the toast to his goddaughter at the reception which followed in Brent Lodge, Brentwood Bay.

An original Courreges summer suit in alabaster and cream tones was the choice of the new Mrs. Nankivell for travelling on honeymoon to Harrison Hot Springs. As complements, she wore a silk Tyrolean hat and accessories in the same color theme.

Mr. and Mrs. John Frederic (Ricky) Todd pictured after their wedding which took place recently in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay. The bride is the former Delia Marie Nast, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Nast, Oakdowne. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Todd, Newport Avenue.—(Jus-Rite) even a mug like me!

If you're like most people, you pride yourself on serving good coffee. And when folks say "cream, please" — nothing answers them so pleasantly as Pacific. It's that fresh, sweet flavor that's made Pacific Evaporated Milk the favorite of people who love coffee—and know quality. Get several tins when you shop.

P.S. Another great quality product from Pacific

As a drink fresh from the refrigerator or used in cooking, everyone loves the flavor of Pacific Instant Skim Milk Powder. It's made from the milk of B.C.'s famous Fraser Valley dairy herds... and is the only instant skim milk powder processed in Western Canada!

Centennial Theme At Bridge Lunch

Favors of little Centennial pins were at each place at the tables for players at the annual bridge luncheon sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday.

The Centennial theme was also carried out with small flags and a symbol in flowers.

A bowl of daffodils, daphne and camellias was on the table and a large bowl of forsythia brightened up one corner of the nurses' lounge where 43 tables were in play. Approximately $300 was realized at the successful event.

Mrs. W. Rogers, president, and Mrs. E. Michaux, convener, received the guests.

Mrs. W. Rothery and Mrs. S. Sedgwick convoked the luncheon and Mrs. A. Slim, Mrs. N. Ward, Mrs. S. Beasley and Mrs. W. Boone looked after the home bake table.

Mrs. Thomas Atkinson was responsible for the attractive flower arrangements and Mrs. A. Blair was in charge of receipts. The raffle had Mrs. C. Baker in charge.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. G. Ryan, Mrs. H. O'Neill, Mrs. B. Goodwin, Mrs. A. L. Robinson, Mrs. B. Kay, Mrs. R. Atkinson, Mrs. G. DeCorte, Mrs. G. Bowes, Mrs. Y. Bowes, Mrs. R. N. Grant, Mrs. W. Critchley, Mrs. M. Kelpin, Mrs. P. W. Semenchuk, Mrs. M. Addison and Miss Eileen Brinn.

At the risk of sounding square I told her I had never heard of a girl doing her boy friend's laundry. Both she and my daughter said it was the "in" thing and that any girl at college who wasn't doing a fellow's laundry was considered a cipher.

Am I crazy when I say this is entirely too chummy?—FORTY SEVEN AND AGING FAST

Dear Aging: If a boy is smart enough to find a girl who is dumb enough to do his laundry, why knock it?

I'll bet a giant-size box of detergent that the laundresses end up with a ring around the washtub, and somebody else gets the ring on the finger.

Dear Ann Landers: I was fascinated by the letter from Life is a Dung Heap. The woman said anyone who has to write to Ann Landers for help is a screw loose, yet she had joined the throng without even realizing it. I address my remarks to her:

I am the "tramp" (?) who is seeing your husband. I would like to make one point clear, he is NOT keeping me. I make $200 a week. And I am not a dumb blonde. I have a master's degree from Columbia University and I'm a brunet.

I did not go after your husband. It was quite the reverse. He finds something in me that he did not find in you—principally a keen appreciation for life and the good things it has to offer. Until he met me, he thought life was a dung heap, too.

And now, because I'm a good sport, I'll give you some advice: If you want your husband back, lose some weight, stop complaining, and make your house a heaven to come home to. Spoil him, fuss over him. He deserves it. In fact, he's the finest man in the town and don't forget, he is YOUR husband. I wish he were mine.—BRONXVILLE

Captain Needed

A Girl Guide captain is urgently needed for a Company in the Gorge District. This is a Company of girls, several of whom are anxious to finish their First Class by the end of June. A captain, with some experience is needed to advise and keep the Company going ahead. There will be plenty of assistance for any who will volunteer. A captain is needed on a permanent basis, but we would be very glad if someone would volunteer until the end of June. For further information please contact Mrs. S. A. Averill, District Commissioner at 382-2054.

Heirloom Locket Something Old

An heirloom gold locket full of the tradition of "something old" for Marjorie Diana Skene when she became the bride of Bruce Wayne Wilson, Port Renfrew, in St. Aidan's United Church.

The locket, which had belonged to her great-great-aunt, was the only jewelry accent to the bride's dainty gown of embroidered velvet. The gown was floor-length and fashioned with long-point sleeves. Her chapel veil was "something borrowed" from Mrs. Don Bruce and it related softly to her shoulders from a floral headpiece. A spray of orchids topped the white leather Bible which she carried.

Baskets of yellow and white Euphorbia, chrysanthemums and gladioli decorated the church when Rev. A. G. MacLeod heard marriage vows exchanged between the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen James Skene of Port Renfrew, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur M. Wilson, 554 Whiteside Street. Mr. Skene gave his daughter in marriage.

Organist was Mrs. Vera Barclay and as the couple signed the register, she accompanied soloist Mrs. Ralph Smith who sang "I'll Walk Beside You". An empire-line gown of aqua satin crepe was worn by matron of honor Mrs. G. L. Heyd of Port Renfrew. Her rose headpiece was in tone and edged with tulle, and she carried carnations in her bouquet.

The bridesmaid, Miss Darlene Cyr, Nanaimo, was in a similar gown of tangerine, with matching headpiece and bouquet of tangerine carnations.

Ken Holding was best man and ushering the guests were Mr. Heyd and the bride's brother, A. W. Skene.

Sugar wedding bells topped the three-tier wedding cake which centred the head table at the reception following in the Tully-Ho Travelodge. The cake was decorated with peach-tinged roses and finished with arrangements of red roses. Ted Gumbiey, Tamworth, Australia, proposed the toast to the bride.

The couple will be making their home at 1517 Cold Harbor Road following a honeymoon trip to the northwestern Washington.

For travelling, the new Mrs. Wilson donned a double-breasted cotton-knit suit of navy and white, accented with white top-stitching at the collar and front opening. Her accessories were white and she completed the ensemble with a corsage of white orchids.

Out of town guests attending the wedding were Miss Lenor Hill, Calgary; Miss Linda Martin, Vancouver, and Miss Helen Vipond, Sydney, Australia.

De Macedo-Graham Vows

Bride Receives Wedding Ring Worn by Groom's Grandmother

Centennial United Church was the setting for a recent ceremony uniting in marriage Grace Graham and Mr. Colin T. de Macedo.

Rev. S. J. Parsons officiated at the wedding for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Graham, 1015 Tolmie Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. de Macedo, 1875 Ventura Way. Soloist Mr. W. Alexander sang "Because during the ceremony."

Mrs. R. Henson was matron of honor for her sister, and Miss Gail Crowthers was bridesmaid. They wore matching gowns of aqua satin and net and lace headpieces on tone. They carried bouquets of white and aqua colored carnations.

and ushering guests to their pews were Mr. G. Uttke and Mr. B. Kirkby.

Centring the bride's table at the reception in Holyrood House was a three-tiered cake decorated by Mr. Ed Fry.

For a honeymoon trip to Southern United States the new Mrs. de Macedo wore a double-knit suit in camel tones. Her accessories were black and she wore a yellow rose corsage. The newlyweds are now making their home at 516 Dallas Road.

Given in marriage by her father the bride chose a floor-length gown in white satin styled with ruffled sleeves. A Chantilly lace train fell gracefully from the shoulders in back to the floor. Red roses and white stephanotis were in the bride's bouquet.

The bride received from the groom the same ring his maternal grandmother received on her wedding day 50 years ago.

At Government House

Coveted Gold Cord Awards Presented to Local Guides

Six Girl Guides from Victoria area and one from Colwood were among 75 Guides from all over British Columbia presented with Gold Cords at a special ceremony in Government House, Wednesday afternoon.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor made the presentation of the award, which is the highest a Girl Guide can achieve.

Prior to the ceremony at Government House, attended by Guide leaders and the girls' families, a luncheon was held in the Empress Hotel. Special guests were Mrs. George R. Pearless, wife of the Lieutenant-Governor; Mrs. W. A. C. Bennett, wife of the provincial premier; Mrs. J. S. Kendrick, provincial Guide commissioner. Also present were former Gold Cord winners and some of their leaders.

Lynn McArthur, 15, served as a Packie with a Saanich Brownie Pack as her community service. She hopes to become a Snowy Owl. In addition Lynn completed a compass mapping for her company, First Beaver Lake Girl Guides.

Sea Ranger Jenny Sewell, 16, of St. Theresa's Rangers, was a Packie with No. 44 Bowler Brownie Pack for her community service project.

The coveted Gold Cord award was also presented to Colwood District Guide Cathy George, 438 Tribune Crescent, Belmont Park, a member of the Third Belmont Company. Among other services 16-year-old Cathy manages the Golden's popcorn sales at a weekly movie club. Cathy has earned 45 badges — the maximum number a Guide can display on her sash — during her five years as a Guide.

One of the major stipulations of the award is performing a service to the community. Gail Brittain, 15, a Sea Ranger from the SRS Beaver crew, ranked high in this phase of her Guide work. She worked eight hours a week after school for four months, serving as a nurse's aide.

Jane M. Buckle, 15, is an apprentice Sea Ranger of the Beaver crew. For her community service she assisted at the Mount St. Mary Hospital for handicapped persons.

Catherine Oliver, 15, another member of the Beaver crew, is also a Sea Ranger from the SRS Beaver crew. She serves as a Packie with the Fourth Victoria Brownie Pack as her service work. Catherine, who hopes to become a Snowy Owl, is one of nine Victoria girls chosen to attend the Centennial Heritage Camp in Ontario this summer.

Shirley A. Raper, 16, is a Ranger of St. Theresa's Sea Rangers and has also been chosen to attend Heritage camp. She was a companion to a convalescent woman as her voluntary service.

Susan Peach, 16, a Ranger of First Saanich South Ranger Company, served as a volunteer at St. Joseph's Hospital. She also became a Sunday school teacher as her service project.

The fact that she has had cerebral palsy since an infant did not stop 16-year-old Tytti Jarvinen, at left, from becoming a Girl Guide and going on to earn her Gold Cord, the highest award a Guide can achieve. For her community service project, Tytti, who was born in Finland coming to Canada at the age of three, taught lessons to some of the younger children in her school at Campbell River where she is now living. She plans to become a Lone Ranger. At right, Jenny Sewell, Sea Ranger of St. Theresa's Rangers, also received her Gold Cord along with six other girls from Victoria area, at the presentation ceremony in Government House. — (Robin Clarke)

Gifts in Grocery Cart

A decorated grocery cart held the many gifts presented to bride-elect Rita Geyssen at a grocery shower held at the home of Mrs. G. M. O'Connell, Dunbar Street.

Carnation corsages were presented to the bride-elect, her mother, Mrs. C. Geyssen, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. Hugh Thompson.

Other guests were Mrs. A. Rostrom, Mrs. M. Trigg, Mrs. J. Hall, Mrs. P. Crawford, Mrs. F.

Smith, Mrs. L. Jackson, Mrs. M. Powley, Mrs. M. Gail, Mrs. V. Roberts and Mrs. T. Higgins of Nanaimo, and the Misses Pat Thompson, Faye Hoffman and Janet Rostrom.

Official Visit

Mrs. E. Winters of Ottawa, most worshipful grand mistress of Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association, will make an official visit to the Victoria Purple Star and Britannia Lodges this evening. The joint meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Orange Hall, 1620 Fernwood Road.

Accompanying Mrs. Winters will be most worshipful deputy grand mistress, Mrs. I. Beaton, Vancouver, and right worshipful grand mistress of British Columbia, Mrs. C. Scott, Nanaimo.

Conservationists Plan Conference in Victoria

For the first time in its 25 years, the American Association for Conservation Information will hold its annual conference outside the U.S. when it meets in Victoria in June.

Program chairman is W. T. Ward, editor of Wildlife Review and a public information officer with the Fish and Wildlife Branch.

Specialists in conservation of natural resources, including professional information and education people from all over the U.S. and Canada, will be here to represent both federal, 45 state and six provincial governments. Keynote speakers at the four-day conference, opening June 11, will be Dr. Durward Allan, professor of wildlife ecology at Purdue University, and Red-erick Haig-Brown, noted Camp-bell River author and conserva-tionist.

Trains Run During Blaze

MONTREAL (CP) — An elusive five-alarm fire in the area of a corridor alongside the CNR's Central Station burned for five hours Wednesday, leaving 10 persons in hospital and bringing some business and traffic in the key downtown area to a halt.

Nine firemen and one CNR employee were taken to hospital as a result of smoke inhalation and scores of others were treated on the scene as they tried to seek out and quell the blaze which fed smoke into the main station concourse and surrounding office buildings.

Cause of the outbreak was not definitely known, although it is believed to have originated in a stationery store-room near a corridor linking the northeast corner of the station and Place Ville Marie, an adjoining array of offices and shops.

The five alarms were rung in because the fire was difficult to pinpoint and as a result of the number of firemen disabled by smoke.

The assault by firefighters was carried out from various entrances within a two-block area as flame and smoke threaded through air ducts and wall divisions. The complexity of passages in the area compounded the firefighters' problems.

The CNR's advance reservations office was evacuated early after the first alarm and some 40 employees established temporary quarters elsewhere.

Trains kept running on time throughout the commotion and ticket service was interrupted for only a short while, as the fire forced evacuation of one end of the 250-foot long main concourse off which the corridor runs.

Service at the express baggage counter and the CNR garage was suspended for the day, although no damage was done to these sections.

***
Part of a basement-floor shopping promenade in the 46-storey Place Ville Marie was closed by police as smoke filled the area and water covered part of the floor.

No estimate of damage was available.

Firemen chopped gaping holes in the tile and insulation of the corridor walls and ceiling, destroying electrical wiring and plumbing, sections of which hung from walls.

New Ideas for Old Ship

By WAYNE THOMAS

The old ship at the bottom of Fort Street may look like a rusted, burned-out hulk, but she represents a $500,000 investment to 40 Victoria professional and businessmen.

Seaview Enterprises Ltd., a subsidiary of Red Lion Inn owners Diversified Management and Development Ltd., bought the former U.S. navy ship recently in Portland for $60,000.

Work will begin in a few weeks on renovating the 1944-built USS Robert M. Emery, a coastal freighter, into a $500,000 glittering Marine Wonderland. That'll be her new name.

WHARF LOCATION

The 289-foot ship will be moored alongside Fishermen's Wharf in San Francisco in late August.

Three aquariums will be installed, the largest, a 35-foot by 12-foot underwater theatre in the lower hold, to contain 11-foot killer whales and porpoises, trained by former Victoria animal-trainer Ross McBride to perform small acts and tricks.

FOOD FOR SEALS

Scuddivers will describe the fish they'll swim among in the "underwater theatre," using latest underwater television communications equipment, and on-lookers will be able to feed the seals in the above-decks tank after they have completed their acts.

John Case, who is designing the layout for the company on behalf of Case Existological Laboratories Ltd., a local marine architectural and engineering firm, says the ship will be the only one of its type in the world.

RESTAURANT LATER

The project is being spearheaded by Victoria solicitor D.M.D. one of several people David Hummel, a director of D.M.D., one of several people who started planning the venture a year ago.

The ship will be a marine attraction the first year and then, authorities permitting, a licensed restaurant will be installed to exploit the San Francisco convention field.

ONE-WAY DRAIN

John Case, another member of the group, said of the fact much of the expected profit will return here:

"For a change, it'll be a one-way drain back to Canada instead of the usual reverse."

The company received permission from U.S. authorities to buy the ship in the U.S., return it to Canada for refitting and then take it back into the U.S.

This is usually not allowed by

Old coastal freighter facing bright future—in San Francisco

U.S. law but shipyards there, as well as arms factories and aircraft companies, are working around the clock churning out materials for the Vietnam war effort and all shipyards are full. "They could have squeezed us in for a refit, but the prices are so inflated that the cost would have been prohibitive," Mr. Champion said.

"So we got permission to have the ship refitted in Victoria which is cheaper and more appropriate."

The ship was bought from a large U.S. shipyard cum-scrapper merchant shortly before it was to be scrapped.

For the past 20 years it has been moored in the mothball fleet of ex-warships which are coated with rust preventive and checked for defects every five years.

She has had a less than illustrious career, missing any Second World War action. Her four sets of twin-40 millimeter guns were never fired in anger. She was first a U.S. Navy coastal freighter, sticking close to the U.S. east coast, and then given to the U.S. army which used her for a harbor-repair ship.

She's now a dead ship, with no engine and stripped of most equipment, but by the time she reaches San Francisco, there'll be a crew of 15. The refit job will be done by Marquart Marine Construction Ltd., a D.M.D. subsidiary.

Old City Hall Will Get New Roof

At a cost of $13,740 the old section of City Hall is to get a new roof.

Aldermen, sitting in on a short estimates cutting session Wednesday, were told that the roof of the old part of the building was given a "cocoon" when the new section of the building was constructed. It was a money-saving measure.

Since then it has leaked badly. During one rainstorm last year the water poured in the upstairs lunchroom and through the floor to the treasurer's department below.

The job will be difficult, aldermen were told, because of the old-fashioned style of the building and its roof.

Aldermen in B Group, which includes public works, parks, planning, urban renewal and water works committees, completed the first session of estimates cutting Wednesday.

The second session will start next week when council, sitting in committee-of-the-whole, begins the tortuous task of getting spending down somewhere in line with estimated income in order to hold the tax line level at 62.5 mills.

Insurance Covers Farm Workers

Workers in agricultural and horticultural fields will be covered by unemployment insurance, effective Saturday.

A spokesman for the Unemployment Insurance Commission said Wednesday his office has been compiling lists and registering farms, ranches, nurseries and greenhouses, covering the fruit, vegetable, flower, poultry and dairy industry.

Shaft Fault Recalls Corvairs

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Chevrolet division Wednesday called back 12,602 new Corvairs to correct a possible defect that might cause the steering shaft to snap.

It was the first time Chevrolet's low-priced "economy" car has been affected by the newest wave of publicly announced call-backs.

The auto companies must announce the extent of such call-backs under the provisions of the new federal safety laws.

Chevrolet said. "The shaft in some vehicles may have been incorrectly aligned during assembly of the vehicle. If such misalignment did occur, it could cause binding and subject the shaft to abnormal stresses under certain conditions.

"Should the stress become severe enough or extend over a period of time, the shaft could break and cause a loss of steering," GM said.

Chevrolet said owners of the 1967 models involved would be asked to return their cars to their dealers to have the steering shafts replaced.

The company said two failures had been reported. Both of them occurred while the cars were being parked.

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS

MONTREAL, March 30th — I'll be wishing you a 'Bon Voyage' on your dream trip to Europe... because your dream can come true much sooner than you think! Simply take advantage of one of the Seventy Services of THE BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA... a Scotiabank Savings Plan. If you start saving now, you'll be off and away in less time than you'd think possible, with only a pause at your nearest Scotiabank to start your trip off right. The folks there will be happy to arrange for your travel savings in a way most convenient to you. You have your choice of a number of Scotiabank savings plans... and do save a little extra to send a postcard to me!

THERE IS NO DOUBT IN MY MIND — the "Honest Wash" I get simply by adding CALGON® water conditioner to my laundry is the answer to all wash day problems. With the Honest Wash you'll rid your clothes of bathtub-rings-of-the-washing-machine — that dirty gray film which builds up and clings to your fabrics wash after wash. It's economical, too! I find the Honest Wash not only gives me cleaner, brighter, naturally soft clothes with 1/4 to 1/2 the usual amount of detergent, but also keeps my laundry white, fresh smelling and new looking longer. Once you've tried Calgon water conditioner you'll wish you had discovered it long ago!

A BARGAIN IS A BARGAIN only when you get quality and full value for your money. I've found one of the few genuine bargains around is CANADIAN NATIONAL's Red, White and Blue Fare Plan... plenty of comfort, complimentary meals for parlor and sleeping car passengers and low fares for children... you really get your money's worth! Just one example: the one way coach travel between Montreal and Vancouver (that's almost 3,000 miles!) is only $45.00 on travel go ON — you'll be as enthusiastic as I am at the comfort, the extra-special low fares.

THERE'S SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE in Britain... whether you enjoy the "swinging" life and revel in the new fashions, and smart discotheques... or if you prefer the tranquil countryside, the traditions, the pomp and pageantry. Whatever your preference, I know you'll never forget your trip with BOAC. This summer BOAC offers you more transatlantic flights than ever before. You can choose from a total of 37 flights every week by BOAC with Air Canada; so there's almost certain to be a flight at the exact time to fit in with your holiday plans. With BOAC you can fly non-stop to London or stop over in Glasgow and Manchester at no extra fare.

No-Nonsense Indian Chief Gets Band New Homes

Cole Bay Indians will be among the best housed on any reserve in B.C., and the credit goes to their energetic, no-nonsense 42-year-old chief, Don Williams.

Chief Williams, a husky individualist with little patience for the ponderous ways of government, has taken the matter of housing into his own capable hands and launched a program that will improve the housing of his band, give the members an investment in their own future and be a valuable exercise in initiative.

ONLY ENABLERS

Indian affairs supervisor Ronald Sampson of Duncan was specific in discounting his department's role in the program. "We are only the enablers. The program is all theirs."

Chief Williams, whose formal schooling never went beyond

Grade 3, has devised a subdivision financing technique for reserve Indians that may very well become a pattern for many other B.C. Indian bands.

TWO BUILT

Under the program, two houses have been built — modern in every respect and right up to NHA standards — and a third is practically completed. The foundations for three more will be dug next month, and construction will continue until all 122 residents of the reserve are snug in their new homes.

The federal government is working on a program to make loans available for Indians on and off reservations, under a mortgage scheme. The proposal now requires the approval of Central Mortgage and Housing, a Crown corporation.

IN OWN HANDS

Chief Williams, however, took the matter into his own hands after he decided about a year ago his band's homes were inadequate and impractical.

With the full approval of his band members, he used the band's funds, borrowed some money from the bank and received some aid from the Indian affairs department. The band pitched in and supplied labor, cutting down on the cost of the project, which will result in the band being housed in modern homes on 100-foot-square lots, along a paved street.

INDOOR PLUMBING

Of even greater importance to the health and welfare of the band, the houses will have indoor plumbing.

Now, the homes are strewn around indiscriminately over the band's 600 acres. It is impossible to provide adequate fire protection, paved access roads or sewers, due to the placement of the houses.

'BOW 'N' ARROW'

Chief Williams felt, he said, that community relations were also weakened by the scattering of the band.

All this will be changed when the members move into their new quarters on "Bow 'N' Arrow Boulevard," as the chief calls his brainchild.

The unique facet of the program is the fact that the band members themselves contributed toward their own betterment, and arrangements have been made for the individuals to help retire the mortgages, putting the money back into the band's fund.

FURNACE HEAT

Furthermore, the members are taking a hand in the actual construction, giving them a closer connection with the project.

The new houses will have two or more bedrooms, plumbing and sewer facilities, and furnace heat.

Chief Williams started on the project a year ago, about the time when the Cowichan band was receiving publicity over its critical need of more and better housing. The chief gathered up the facts and figures that justified the need to the authorities and won an appropriation from the federal government.

OTHER BANDS

Happy with the acceptance of his project, Chief Williams has the Capital Region Planning Board making a study of his band's needs in other fields, and plans to take action to right them when he receives the planning group's suggestions for improvement.

He is looking into the possibility of helping two other Saanich Peninsula Indian bands launch similar housing schemes.

The Cole Bay project is expected to be completed in about a year.

Most Calls

Ambulance Busy In Saanich

Saanich's ambulance once again has proved to be the most popular element of the municipality's emergency fleet. More than half of the calls which came into Saanich's alarm room last year—686 of 1,229—were for the ambulance, which is operated by firemen trained in first aid.

"We are exceedingly pleased with the service we've been able to offer the people," said Fire Chief J. S. Sutherland.

The ambulance trips are made without charge, on the same principle by which the municipality responds to fire calls.

A comparison of the mileage run by the ambulance with those of an average fire department vehicle illustrates how much it is on the road. The ambulance last year put on 6,500 miles while the No. 1 pumper truck, as an example, travelled 1,208—about one-fifth of the distance.

The Cadillac ambulance is stationed at the main fire hall on Vernon Avenue, where six men are on duty each shift.

When an ambulance call comes in, it leaves only an assistant chief and three firemen on hand to attend fire calls.

U.K. Oil Fight Won?

Beach Cleanup Encouraging

LAND'S END, England (AP)—Confidence of ultimate victory surged up Wednesday among Britons fighting a black wave of oil from the scrap iron that was once the supertanker Torrey Canyon. More than 2,000 men swung into the battle to save the beaches.

While troops and auxiliary firemen worked over oil-stained sands with detergents and bulldozers, renewed bombing by British planes again ignited the crude oil cargo remaining in the wave-washed wreckage of the ship. A giant column of smoke rose from the wreck site seven miles off southwest England.

BEFORE JULY

Despite huge quantities of oil still drifting at sea, municipal authorities on shore expressed belief that most resorts can be cleared away before the summer vacation season opens in July.

"We're well satisfied with the work so far and we are learning a lot," said Philip Coleman, manager of the Wadebridge council in North Cornwall. "If things get no worse, we're confident of winning the struggle."

WAVE UPON WAVE

Wave after wave of bombs and rockets slammed into the ruins of the Torrey Canyon, a 974-foot-long Liberian-flag vessel owned by a subsidiary of the Union Oil Co. of California. She broke apart Sunday as Dutch tugs tried to pull her from a reef on which she grounded March 18.

The defence ministry planned to keep up the assault, using high explosives and fiery napalm to burn out the oil.

DIRECT HIT

A direct napalm hit from an RAF plane Wednesday sent a ball of fire 500 feet into the air. Within 30 minutes a plume of black smoke had climbed 5,000 feet.

The first bombings Tuesday had set off similar fires, but they were out by midnight that night.

The Torrey Canyon, most expensive loss in merchant marine history at its insured value of $16,500,000, hit the notorious Seven Stones Reef while carrying 35,800,000 gallons of crude oil from Kuwait to Britain.

The cargo, spilling from her

Youngsters patrolled the beaches picking up hundreds of seabirds clogged by the oil. They took them to cleaning centres set up in the resorts for the oil to be removed with detergents.

Kennedy On Bow

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP)—An aircraft carrier will be christened John F. Kennedy here Saturday, May 27, two days before the day on which the assassinated U.S. president would have been 50 years old.

Fender-Smashing Suspect Eludes Police

CHICAGO (UPI)—A fleeing driver, jettisoning a gun and a mask in his wake, led police and FBI agents in a wild, fender-smashing chase Wednesday through the heart of the area being searched for kidnapped Carrie Stephens.

The motorist, who resembled the description of Carrie's abductor, fled on foot down an alley and seemed to disappear despite the emergency search parties of police and FBI agents who flooded the area. Helicopters swooped over the apartment buildings in the North Side uptown area, canine force dogs sniffed their way down alleys and into movie theatres, and police men scrambled over rooftops looking for the will-o'-the-wisp motorist. But there was no sign of him.

Police would not be pinned down on whether they believed the stocky, white-shirted motorist who roared through uptown in a stolen Thunderbird, bounding off police and FBI cars on his way, was the beefy stranger who snatched 8-year-old Carrie from the sidewalk Monday night.

A portly, medium-height man wearing black-rimmed glasses approached Carrie and four of her friends Monday night and offered them $1 to help him find a lost dog.

Rose Douglas, 8, one of Carrie's playmates, told authorities that the stranger directed her two young brothers to search westward while he, Carrie and Rose walked east.

Rose said the man grabbed Carrie and led her away.

Petition Given Pearson

CALGARY (CP)—A University of Calgary civil rights group Wednesday presented Prime Minister Pearson with a petition protesting "the injustices" in the handling of drug charges against three members of the San Francisco mime troupe.

The Prime Minister said he would be "very glad to read" the petition protesting excessive bail for two members and "harassment" of a third by immigration authorities.

RAIL FORFEITED

Orlin Lee Vaughn, 27, was freed Tuesday and returned to the U.S. after being held in Spy Hill jail here on a deportation order.

Vaughn last week was held by immigration authorities in Vancouver and was late for a court appearance in Calgary on a charge of possession of marijuana.

His bail of $1,000 was ordered forfeited. It later was reset by an Alberta supreme court judge but Vaughn was held on the deportation order.

HEARING SET

The two other troupe members, Ronald Jerome Stallings and Ronald Guy Davis, were twice refused bail but were granted bail of $2,500 Tuesday.

Vaughn's preliminary hearing is scheduled for April 3. Stallings and Davis, also charged with possession of marijuana, are scheduled to appear in magistrate's court today.

Odd Blood Clue To Sclerosis

HAMILTON (CP)—The discovery of an apparent oddity in the blood of multiple sclerosis patients has thrown one of the first rays of light on the mysterious disease, for which no cause and no cure have yet been found.

Samples drawn at treatment clinics here and analysed at the Charles H. Best Institute in Toronto have shown that a nerve-destroying factor exists in this blood, not present in the blood of other persons.

Hamilton neurologist Dr. Daniel Levy said researchers pursuing the discovery "seem to be on the path of something important."

The 12-judge court ruled that health, education and welfare. The vote on the ruling was 8-4. If Negroes are ever to enter

Boat Stealers Jailed for Two Years

SHELBOURNE, N.S. (CP)—been promised the job of engine more sea time. He and two other ship-stealers were sentenced to two years each in prison here Wednesday for their exploits. All pleaded guilty. Provincial Judge Roger Rand said that in view of the seriousness of their actions and the cost of searching for the stolen vessels he could not "take a light view" of what they had done. Moore became a sort of notorious hero along the Atlantic coast for his feat in manoeuvring the 102-foot trawler Cape Spry out of Lockport, N.S., unaided early March 17.

The other two — William Blandford Atwood, 21, and William Eugene Jacklyn, 21, both of Shelburne — apparently aimed to gain similar notice. They routed two crew members off the 82-foot scallop dragger Hansen here five days later and sailed her away.

It took police and coast guard three days to catch Moore and recover the Cape Spry. Atwood and Jacklyn were picked up in 12 hours. Neither ship was damaged.

Interviewed in the county jail here after being sentenced, Moore blamed his capture on the condition of the ship. "If I'd had a better boat they'd never have caught me. I'd have been in Africa."

He said the Cape Spry was leaking above the waterline when he took her away from her Lockport wharf and began to leak even worse when he got into rough weather three days later. "I'd condemn her if I owned her," he said.

Back, Forth

He said he had no particular trouble getting the trawler away from the wharf, even though the 20-year-old ship had no engine controls in the wheelhouse. As a result he had to run back and forth to the engine room.

When he gets out of Dorchester, N.B., penitentiary, Moore said, he wants to work for his captain's papers. He had four years training as a marine machinist in British Columbia before he came to Nova Scotia. Moore said he had only six hours sleep while he was alone on the Cape Spry—two hours on the first day and four the second. He stopped the engine both times and let the trawler drift. But he said he was never a threat to other shipping as some people ashore had thought. He kept his radar in operation at all times and had all running lights on.

Snow, Wind

He estimated the wind reached 65 miles an hour part of the time and there was a lot of snow. The engine stopped when he was about 100 miles out.

"I was worried then but I got her going again."

He called the Cape Spry "a floating death trap." He said there were lifeboats aboard but he doubted if they could be launched.

However, spokesmen for her owners, National Sea Products Ltd., of Halifax, have said the leaks were minor and not unusual for a 20-year-old wooden ship. They pronounced her seaworthy.

Half Speed

Moore said he ran the engine at half speed, about seven knots, all the time because he feared a breakdown. He knew how the ship handled because he and two other crew members, one of them the engineer, had sailed her around the harbor at Lunenburg, N.S., two weeks earlier.

The Cape Spry had been on the marine slip there for repairs.

He contended that radar showed the coast guard cutter Rally was within four miles of him Saturday night, March 19, before she turned back for lack of fuel. The coast guard said at the time they were 25 miles from the trawler when they temporarily suspended the chase.

Icy Gear

The Rally also had lost radio contact with an RCAF Argus aircraft, which had the Cape Spry under surveillance. The radio gear iced up in the bad weather.

Moore said he knew about the progress of the search from marine radio reports but he kept radio silence himself.

On Sunday, March 19, "she started to leak pretty bad." He radioed his position to the coast guard ship Thomas Carleton, then about 100 miles away and headed toward her. The Carleton picked him up Monday and brought him here in custody early Tuesday morning.

Not Needed

A United States Coast Guard ship came near Sunday afternoon and asked by radio if he needed help. Moore said he told them he did not.

He said he went aboard the fishing boat Gulf Gallant at a nearby berth in Lockport before he stole the Cape Spry and asked to look at their charts of the harbor.

When he had to leave the wheelhouse to go to the engine room he would tie the wheel with two ropes to keep the ship on course.

His father had telephoned him after he arrived at the county jail. "He didn't say much," Moore said with a smile. His two younger sisters at home "think I'm a big hero."

No Bet

Did he do it on a bet? "No," said Moore.

He said he had two offers of jobs as mechanic while he was in jail awaiting court hearing. One offer came from Halifax and the other from the West Coast.

That was before the theft of the second ship by Atwood and Jacklyn. There were no more offers after that.

Garrison Life Threatened By Woman from Georgia

From AP, UPI
NEW ORLEANS — District attorney Jim Garrison said today there have been reports on his life as a result of an investigation into the assassination of President Kennedy. The FBI notified New Orleans Tuesday a woman in Georgia was reported to have threatened Garrison's life. The FBI gave no details.

Garrison, who customarily carries a pistol, would not comment when asked about precautions he might be taking. His house has been under 24-hour guard for weeks.

Meanwhile, Judge Edward Hagerty refused to quash an arrest order against former New Orleans lounge operator Gordon Novel as a material witness in Garrison's investigation.

HELL APPEAL
Novel's attorney said he would appeal to the state supreme court.

The judge said, however, he would consider reducing Novel's $50,000 bond if Novel returns to the jurisdiction of the court. The judge said he might even release Novel on his own recognizance if the witness returns.

Garrison brought key witness Layton Martens before a grand jury which has already indicted businessman Clay Shaw on charges of conspiring to kill Kennedy.

FORMER ROOMMATE
Martens, a 24-year-old student, is a former roommate of the late David Ferrie, whom Garrison charges conspired with

Unions, Cosa Nostra Linked?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The chief of the U.S. justice department's organized crime division Wednesday linked high levels of the teamsters union and the international Longshoremen's Association with the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate.

The Teamsters' general vice-president, Frank Fitzsimmons, termed the statement by Henry Peterson "slandrous" and urged him either to repudiate his remark or present evidence in court.

There was no immediate comment from ILA leaders.

Peterson told a panel session reliable evidence and not on a "moral certainty," he said. "If you have any evidence which supports your charges, it should be presented in court. If not, we urge that you address the same in an appropriate forum and deny the remarks in fairness to the more than 1,800,000 Teamsters and their families across this nation and in Canada."

Fitzsimmons, who is running Teamster affairs while the union president, James Hoffa, is in federal prison for jury tampering, sent a telegram of protest to Peterson.

Pirate Prince Cellist, Too

ELGIN, Scotland — Prince Charles is becoming a multi-talented show business personality.

Only a few weeks after playing the pirate king in a Gordonstoun School production of Pirates of Penzance, he played the cello to a capacity audience in a public concert here. The music was by Mozart, Schumann and Britten.

NAMES In the News

PHILADELPHIA — The U.S. government approved American citizenship for Mrs. Stefania Tornabene, 18, but announced plans to deport her husband Felipe, 19, to their native Sicily because of charges he is a Communist. He said it was his brother.

CALGARY — Prime Minister Pearson, opening a western tour, hinted at more federal aid for community planning studies and programs aimed at reducing land costs for housing and other developments. He said "space and transportation corridors" may be emphasized.

LONDON — Commodore Geoffrey Marr, 58, skipper of the liner Queen Elizabeth, fell and broke his ankle on the bridge. A day earlier, the ship's first skipper, Sir James Bisset, died in Portsmouth at 82 and Capt. George Cove, in charge from 1950 to 1952, died in Liverpool at 79.

WASHINGTON — President Johnson re-designated William McChesney Martin, Jr., as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, ending speculation that Martin would be dropped for disagreeing with the president.

MILAN — Police said Francesco Tedeschi, a father of five, strangled his mistress in his car and then drove around the countryside all night looking for a deserted spot to dump the body. He could not find one, because every road was jammed with motorists returning from the Easter weekend, so he turned himself in.

QUEBEC — Premier Johnson pledged that world's fair visitors who used facilities of the province and Logexpo secure Expo lodging in Montreal are not in danger of losing their deposits, as reported.

BASKING RIDGE, N.J. — Charles van Vleet, 74, took a picture from his parlor wall to an art dealer for cleaning.

Tornabenes—citizen and alien that's when he learned it was by U.S. artist Winslow Homer and worth perhaps $20,000.

EDMONTON — Premier Manning demanded in the legislature that New Democratic MLA Garth Turcott produce within 48 hours specific charges to back up his claims of impropriety. Turcott last month questioned some land dealings by Municipal Minister Hooke and said former treasurer E. W. Hinman may have used his post to further his own ends.

CAIRO — Former Egyptian queen Nariman, 33, took an overdose of sleeping pills in a suicide attempt and was in a coma for 18 hours but now is recovering. She divorced ex-king Farouk after his 1954 fall, married a doctor and was divorced again in 1964.

VIENNA — Hungary's Cardinal Mindszenty celebrated his 75th birthday in the U.S. legation in Budapest, which he has not left since the Hungarian uprising of 1956.

OTTAWA — Hal Dornan, press secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, is making good progress after undergoing brain surgery for a circulatory disturbance in early January, and will return to work soon.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Former federal prison official Ralph Nuss, 30, charged with two murders, was declared a criminal sexual psychopath and committed to a mental institution. The victims included Tom Brown, 19, of Windsor, Ont.

ALBANY, N.Y. — Gov. Rockefeller said New York state, whose voters recently approved state lotteries, will have 12 a year, eight more than planned at first.

BONN — U.S. Vice-President Humphrey arrived on a special mission to try to convince the West Germans that the U.S. is not selling them down the river in favor of a detente with the Soviet Union.

MOSCOW — Merchant Marine Minister Viktor Bakayev said Russia plans a merchant fleet of 13,000,000 tons by 1970, well over twice the current U.S. merchant tonnage.

NEW ORLEANS — Renato Cellini, 54, conductor and general director of the New Orleans Opera, died after a long illness.

Seam-Bursting Boys' Club Seeks Funds for Expansion

The Boys' Club of Victoria, a lusty six years old and bursting at the seams, is seeking $310,000 for a new building that will accommodate about half the 2,000 boys living in the area.

Campaign chairman George A. Gray announced several key appointments to his committee Wednesday, men who will spearhead the drive to ease the club's overcrowded conditions in its present site, a former firehall at 1240 Yates.

Col. R. O. Bull, founder of the Victoria branch of the national organization, was named chairman of the national corporations committee.

CO-CHAIRMEN T. D'Arcy McGee and Aubrey Westinghouse are co-chairmen of the special names committee; H. J. Kennedy and Jack Lord will head the advance local corporation committee.

C. N. Mullins and T. G. Barlow will head the local business committee; John W. Bayne will be honorary treasurer.

The Victoria club is joining with the Boys' Clubs of Canada in celebrating the 60th anniversary of the organization on the national scene.

The week-long celebration started Tuesday with a sports and film night; Wednesday was a rock and roll dance; tonight is a hobby show and father and son night; Friday and Saturday are carnival nights.

The club on Yates will open to the public daily from p.m. to 5 p.m. and from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

50 years behind

Below is our solution to low cost packaging. It's been around for over 50 years. Nobody told us that housewives were demanding fancy packages. But then nobody told housewives how much fancy packages cost.

1. Still one of the fastest lowest cost packages designed by man. One of the big reasons Campbell's Soup has gone up only a few cents in 50 years.

2. Vegetables and beef broth are put in can. Can is sealed, then pressure cooked. Saves at least as much flavour and nourishment as if you cooked them on your own stove.

3. Average price: still less than 6 cents a bowl. (That's based on 3 servings from the regular size.) Requires no refrigeration. Lasts almost indefinitely.

4. Contents are condensed—double strength (an idea invented by Campbell). Condensed size helps keep consumer prices down because shipping costs are lower.

5. Hermetic seal. Locks in flavour and nourishment.

6. Simple label. Costs little to print. No see-through "windows". The value goes into the contents, not the package.

7. Packed full of vegetables. No large airspace. No settling in shipment.

8. Ready in 4 minutes. In this day of "instant" foods and convenience foods, Campbell's Soup remains about the most "instant" and convenient of all.

9. Please note: this package has changed little in 50 years, but the vegetable soup is miles better. Last year alone, we made 8 improvements. We never rest.

Flood Control Going Ahead

By MARY TAYLOR
ALBERNI—Mayor Fred Bishop has welcomed assurances from the senior governments that flood control work will proceed.

During the past week, revised flood control plans were received and turned over to the consulting engineers employed by city council.

"It is expected the plans will be returned and discussed with council during the coming week," Mr. Bishop stated.

To expedite matters, the mayor and city manager met with the minister of lands, Ray Williston.

Mr. Williston assured us the government is prepared to get the work underway as soon as possible. After approval, the plans will be returned to the department, and they will make arrangements to call tenders, Mr. Bishop said.

Bishop

assurance the long-delayed reconstruction of the road into the city of Alberni will be undertaken this year.

In particular, the area between Tebo Road and Helen Street, where a heavy concentration of population has now developed, was mentioned.

"The minister assured us he definitely intends to undertake the work this year," Mr. Bishop said.

MLA Dr. Howard McDiarmid accompanied the Alberni representatives.

Money bylaws providing the city's share of costs for both the flood control project and the highway reconstruction were passed more than 18 months ago.

However when the plans and estimates on the flood control project were received, they were 2 1/2 times as high as had been originally contemplated, and complete revision was required.

Although the city's share of the costs had been set aside for the highway work, it was apparently not included in the provincial budget for last year.

Empires Being Built?

NORTH COWICHAN—A charge of empire-building was levelled at a meeting of Maple Bay residents, as they voted almost unanimously to challenge the location of the new municipal hall.

Thirty-three of the 34 taxpayers voted to ask North Cowichan council to engage a professional planner and have his suggestion for a hall location approved at a plebiscite.

PETITION

Wife of North Cowichan Coun. George Whittaker, Margaret Whittaker, passed a petition around at the meeting against the proposed location.

The petition is opposing the location because an indicated secession move should be settled first, she said, and the hall should be located in the main business area.

Mrs. Whittaker referred to a group of people in the southern part of the municipality who hinted their interest in breaking away from North Cowichan to join the city of Duncan.

Her husband last week warned North Cowichan council he would take legal action if council ignores public opinion against the municipal hall location.

Council decided last week to put off signing of the contract with G. H. Wheaton of Victoria which submitted the lowest bid for the hall construction amounting to $224,100 plus $13,500 for the cost of parking driveway work.

Council is expected to make a final decision Tuesday.

ADVICE

At the Maple Bay meeting, Bert Evans charged "I cannot conceive the idea that a public building is being built without professional advice."

"I am in favor of a new hall but not of the location."

NO UNITY

President Kurt Horn said "It seems to me the location of the hall is to be moved not for the convenience of the taxpayers, but to get away from Duncan."

Maple Bay resident Gena Borsy added "This move would appear to assist disunity and the building of small empires all over the place."

Coun. Margaret Robertson, quoting a press release, said the new hall is centrally located has ample room for expansion, has easy access from main roads, is convenient to public works shops, will not conflict with immediate boundary changes, has municipal water and fire protection, will be paid for this year without tax increase, can be built and occupied by the end of August, and is a utility building without frills.

HUNTING

In other business, Maple Bay residents decided to submit a resolution to the municipal council requesting a ban on hunting on Maple Mountain except for a period from the end of September to the end of the hunting season.

Council earlier heard pros and cons regarding hunting on Maple Mountain and soon will make a decision.

DEVELOPMENT

Speaking against hunting, John Getgood said on a recent visit to the Maple Mountain park he was amazed to find that virtually nothing had been done since 1938 to develop the park.

His original motion to develop the area as a park and forbid hunting was amended to allow hunting during the season.

Mr. Evans stressed he never goes hunting in any part of the municipality because no part is safe enough for hunting.

Jack Davis said hunters have just as much right to use municipal land as other recreation groups, and another taxpayer suggested an area be set aside for hunters with bows and arrows.

In an effort to make the Maple Bay district "an attractive, rural area" B.C. Hydro Authority will be asked to put a proposed power line underground instead of spoiling the scenic character.

Jean Goes Heavy

Big bulk carrier Jean loads with 2,000,000 feet of packaged lumber and 1,500,000 feet of loose lumber, before leaving Tahiti. It is maiden voyage of Jean, delivered by shipyard in Osaka, Japan, March 8. Ship is registered in Liberia.

Operation Awaits Curtain

By ARNOLD OLSON

NANAIMO — An actor who refused to let an emergency operation interfere with his stage work, won a round of applause from the audience and praise from adjudicator Franklyn Johnson Wednesday.

Ron Butler was scheduled to play the lead in Hortense Couch Tol by George Courteline, presented by Yellow Point Drama Group in the Island one-act drama festival.

But Wednesday he was rushed to hospital, and prepared for immediate surgery.

Said the adjudicator: "He talked himself out of hospital, and onto the stage, with the promise that he would return to hospital for the operation the moment the show was over."

Mr. Johnson said it was "in the true tradition of theatre." The adjudicator said Hortense Couch Tol, directed by Margaret Davidson, was an imaginative production.

"It lacked only volatility," he said. "The seven players listened well, and reacted."

The first play of the evening was the first act of John Osborne's Look Back in Anger, the first play of the Angry Young Men.

Mr. Johnson said the play, presented by Little Mountain Theatre Group, "had good at least, but lacked a sordid quality."

He said the act, directed by Mary Hawke, should have had an untidy set, and people who were less genteel.

John Tompkins as Jimmy Porter "could have been angrier."

Former Miss Parkville, Eva Grant, "looked too pretty." He said Denis Leclair was good with business.

Yellow Point also presented Not Enough Rope, by American avant-garde writer, actress and comedian Elaine May. It was directed by Tom Cooke.

"The custard pie era is coming back," said the adjudicator. "Laughter based on things that actually hurt a person is being used more frequently."

He said Mr. Cooke was generally too strong, except at one vital moment when he was just right.

Mr. Johnson said the play grew from the moment Eunice Jepson found herself stuck on a chair with a rope around her neck.

Three clubs present their best for a Nanaimo audience tonight. Ladysmith Little Theatre which has beaten bigger clubs four years running, has proven that membership numbers cannot beat hard work.

This is the club that has proven that women can get out and build a set.

They have men in the group, but the women saw that too much work placed on too few people for too long results in collapse.

They get out and hammer, paint, saw, and clean up. The men are on hand to supervise when necessary, and to do the really heavy work.

This co-operation has had its results, as the plaques on the zone's trophies will prove.

Harewood Players is a group of young people which decided that it would put its training on the line against adults, and see what happens.

Their play Penelope, The Pride of the Pickle Factory, is a melodrama that does not try to prove a thing, except that people like to laugh.

All teenagers, they play with unrestricted abandon, and give all their energy to the play.

Overtones, entered by St. Peter's Players, has been seen by local audiences before, but with a slightly different cast, and by a different director.

The former director has taken a part in the play. Mark Brass, the new director, is only about 16, but he has been on stage almost as much as some of the adults in the festival.

Value for City Money Concerns McKnight

PORT ALBERNI — A city council recommendation that the annual assessment of the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau be accepted, and that this amount be included in the city's donation to the Chamber of Commerce, was opposed by newly-elected Alderman George McKnight.

No request for funds has yet been received from the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. McKnight maintained, and such donations should not be allocated without a request.

"Furthermore, I would like to be assured this area is getting a fair share of the publicity."

Ald. McKnight said although he had looked on stands filled with publicity material on ferries and in other areas, he had found little or nothing pertaining to the Alberni Valley.

"I feel a Chamber of Commerce should do more than just concern itself with publicity."

If the council wished to support the publicity bureau, it should do so separately from the Chamber of Commerce, he said.

Strange Place for Chance Meeting

This scene did not impress Dave Stupich, Nanaimo MLA, when he toured controversial Western Mines operation in Strathcona Park. Here, open pit mining is carried on, while conservationists and Campbell River Water District battle against what they claim is pollution of Buttle Lake. Mr. Stupich said while he was touring, he met two other visitors to the operation, Recreation Minister Kiernan and Mines Minister Brothers. "I don't think they were too happy to see me," he said.—(Agnes Flett)

Still Church People

DEWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Kurth have begun married life with problems common to newlyweds and with a special twist. He is a Roman Catholic priest who violated church doctrine to marry a former nun.

HASN'T ASKED

Kurth, 35, said he still considers himself to be a priest, that he and his 34-year-old wife will continue to be devout Roman Catholics, but that he acknowledges the assumption that a priest's violation of celibacy means excommunication from the church.

"But I have not asked for a release from my vows," he said. "I could not freely give up my priesthood."

He and his bride, having avoided reporters with a secret wedding ceremony at 1 a.m. Saturday, met with them this afternoon in their rented lakeside cottage in this resort commu...nity west of Milwaukee to offset what Kurth called an impression that they were "running away" from reality.

BY PROTESTANT

Aware of the shadow of excommunication, they were married by a Protestant pastor to avoid further violation of Roman Catholic church rules.

As newlyweds, their initial concern is making a living. Neither has a full-time job although both are certified teach-

They acknowledged that as Roman Catholics, excommunication represents an emotional concern. But Kurth's superior, Very Rev. Harold Liehl, provincial of the Pallotine Order in this area, said Wednesday he has no comment on the situation at this time.

HAD DOUBTS

Kurth and his wife, the former Shirley Weiss, who was a nun until last year, said each had doubts about some church rules — including celibacy for priests — before they decided to marry.

"I did not leave the Franciscans to be married," Mrs. Kurth said. "I had many other questions about community living."

"We do not feel that we have left the religious life," Kurth said. "We have not left the Catholic church. Our love developed from mutual respect and affection."

No Permit

Mounties Keep Pistol

Edward Courtepatte, 315 Langford, pleaded guilty in central magistrate's court Wednesday to failing to take out a permit for an antique revolver. He took the gun from Victoria to Comox last Oct. 8 to show to his relatives. The weapon, which has a .22 calibre barrel over a .44 calibre barrel, was registered in his name.

RETURNED BY RCMP

While in Comox, Mr. Courtepatte lost the revolver and, when it was returned to him by RCMP, he was charged with not having obtained a permit.

The antique revolver was confiscated—the charge carries a statutory automatic forfeiture—and the defendant was fined $10.

Rugati before abandoning grounded tanker

Screams in Night

GENOA, Italy (UPI) — The captain cried out as in pain.

"I must answer for everything, for everyone."

A thousand miles away, rockets, bombs and napalm canisters shattered and scared the remains of his ship. (See also Page 30.)

"I must carry the cross alone," he cried.

Every explosion and tongue of fire aboard the pieces of the reeled super tanker Torrey Canyon off southwestern Britain was a blow to Pastrengo Rugati. Once he served aboard an Italian submarine and then skippered an Italian torpedo boat in the Second World War. Captured, he spent 18 months in a prison camp in Poland, then returned to the sea.

He commanded a sister ship of the Torrey Canyon before he took command of the super tanker now spilling its cargo of crude oil on the coastal waters and shores of Cornwall, England.

"Only I must answer for what's happened," Rugati said. "I should never have left my ship. My place was with her."

He had spent two days aboard trying to salvage the tanker. Then he flew home. "Please, please, dear, think of us," his wife, Anna, consoled him. "Think of your family."

He trembled; his voice cracked as he spoke to newsmen.

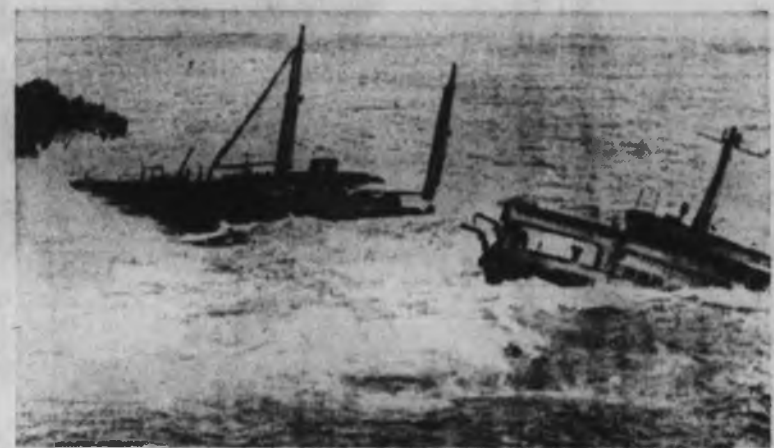

"He wakes up screaming every night," his wife said. "He says he hears the roar of the rocks tearing into his ship. We had to send him to the doctor."

Rugati, his face haggard, would not answer questions about how the modern ship, 61,263 tons, carrying 118,000 tons of crude oil Seven Stones in Britain, had struck Seven Stones reef.

There is $38,500,000 in insurance involved. There probably will be claims because of befoiled beaches in England. The ramifications of the reeling of the Torrey Canyon could keep admiralty lawyers busy for years.

For Rugati now it is a recurring nightmare.

"He is still in a state of shock," his wife said, comforting him.

Double Blow to Super Fleet

VANCOUVER (CP) — A world shipping magnate Wednesday described the Torrey Canyon disaster as a two-fronted blow that will be felt by the shipping industry for years to come.

C. Y. Tung, head of Orient Overseas Line, which has a fleet of more than 60 vessels operating through Hong Kong, said major companies now will be wary about building super tankers.

He also said loss of the 62,000-ton Torrey Canyon would boost insurance premiums to a degree that would extend over the next 15 years.

Mr. Tung's company is currently building three super-tankers of 200,000 tons deadweight tonnage each, which will be among the largest in the world.

He feels 200,000 tons is about the economic maximum in construction of tankers or bulk carriers.

"As a result of the Torrey Canyon wreck, the biggest in history, insurance companies will not be prepared to shoulder bigger risks," he added.

Phoenix Unloads Cargo In North Vietnam Port

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 50-foot ketch Phoenix loaded with $10,000 worth of medical supplies consigned to the Red Cross in North Vietnam, arrived in Haiphong Thursday night, according to word received here.

Lawrence Scott, co-chairman of a Quaker Action Group which sponsored the trip, said a telegram from one of the crew members, Phil Drath, of San Raphael, Calif., said:

"Trip successful. Medicines formally and gratefully accepted by Red Cross. Please inform spouses."

The medicine is to be distributed to civilians in North Vietnam injured as a result of the war.

The CBC has announced in Toronto the trip of the yacht will be the subject of an hour-long documentary to be shown in May. It announced earlier this month that director Richard Fraun, 30, of Toronto and cameraman William Heich were on board the yacht.

BULLETIN

KENNER, La. (UPI) — An aircraft crashed early today in a residential district near New Orleans International Airport. All emergency units have been sent to the scene and hospitals have been alerted to receive patients.

Pearson Raps Obsolete Concepts

Get Off Nationalism Kick!

CALGARY (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said Wednesday Canada has become preoccupied with nationalism and national identity at a time when science and technology have made national sovereignty practically obsolete.

"Canada should never prefer either isolation or continentalism to broad-based internationalism," he said at a combined luncheon meeting of service clubs here.

"Nor should there be any policy or action by any Canadian government on foreign investment and ownership until we know all the facts.

"Research into those facts is now going on by a group of qualified experts and we hope to have its conclusions in a few months."

Some Canadian nationalism seemed to be anti-American, "another obsolete and foolish concept for a country like Canada."

Canadians should reject extremes of anti-Americanism based on prejudice and of profit-motivated ideas of improving this country's material lot by "becoming hewers of more and more wood and drawers of more and more water for U.S. owners and investors."

The prime minister also criticized the "growing tendency of some provinces to blame their own difficulties on the lack of political understanding or fiscal justice shown by Ottawa in federal-provincial relations."

They warned Ottawa to keep out of all matters belonging to the provinces and cautioned excessive federal spending while demanding more federal money.

These inevitable problems of a federation would be solved in future as in the past by "policies of moderation and compromise," mutually acceptable accommodations between provincial and federal governments and between English- and French-speaking language groups.

He said the future holds no reduction in the scope or power of government at any level. This might be bad news for those, "including many Albertans," who believe the least government is the best government.

"Government . . . in a free society . . . cannot escape its role as the main instrument for removing inequities and inequalities among citizens and as the chief referee of responsible behavior among the various segments of the community."

Landymore

Return 'Only Fair'

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Wednesday it would only be fair to reinstate Admiral Williams Landymore into the navy.

In a CBC free-time telecast, he charged that Defence Minister Hellyer is rushing his unification bill through Parliament in a bid to seize the Liberal leadership, "regardless of the consequences."

"You recall that the minister attacked Admiral Landymore, almost stating he has been treacherous to his country. He had to apologize."

'ONLY FAIRNESS'

"It would be only fairness today to reinstate the admiral, to put an end to this rush towards unification so that Canadians once more will be able to live in the traditions of their past and the greatness of their services."

The admiral was fired as commanding officer of Maritime Command last July after clashing with Mr. Hellyer over

Johnson Reins CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has ordered the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency to get out of the business of subsidizing private groups through secret, under-the-table deals. (See Page 8.)

Johnson at the same time Wednesday promised to give serious consideration to creation of a new institution that in effect would continue federal subsidies, but do so in the open.

The president acted after receiving recommendations from a three-man group he appointed after disclosure that the CIA had been secretly financing overseas activities by private educational, labor, philanthropic and cultural organizations.

Johnson accepted the following recommended policy statement by the group:

"No federal agency shall provide any covert financial assistance or support, directly or indirectly, to any of the nation's educational or private voluntary organizations . . ."

Passenger Killed In Plane Plunge

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI) — A United Air Lines Jet passenger plane fell 8,000 feet down an air pocket high over Wyoming Wednesday, but landed safely here. One man was killed when he released his seat belt to grab his granddaughter.

Other passengers were reported injured and were taken to Natrona County airport by ambulances standing by at the Casper airport.

Only Huntley Sticks To His Mike

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's major television and radio networks carried on Wednesday with barely a hitch on the first day of an unprecedented newsmen and performers' strike that had secretaries pinching for commentators and lawyers for engineers.

Some 18,000 members of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists went on strike at dawn at CBS, ABC, NBC and Mutual network studios and stations in New York, Washington, Chicago and Los Angeles. Some of the networks' broadcast engineers, newfilm crews and stage crews walked out in sympathy later in the day.

Film files and tape libraries were raided for replacements for live soap operas, panel shows, quiz games and even some newscasts which had to be skipped. Famous names like David Brinkley, Johnny Carson, Walter Cronkite, Captain Kangaroo, Peter Jennings and Hugh Downs, were off the air and some were on the picket line.

"And I'll be there tomorrow morning, too," said Downs after seven hours of marching outside NBC-TV's midtown headquarters, part of the time in a drizzling rain. He had inadvertently been driven to the building in a network limousine.

Peterson Disturbed

LSD Worst Problem

VANCOUVER (CP) — Education Minister Peterson said Wednesday the potential menace of LSD among high school students is the most disturbing problem his department has faced this year.

He told 1,000 delegates to the 48th annual convention of the B.C. Teachers' Federation that the education department is preparing a motion picture warning students against consumption of the hallucinatory drug.

"In a fluctuating year with many ups and downs in education, this threat of possible indiscriminate use of the drug LSD has disturbed me more than anything else," Mr. Peterson said.

"While no comprehensive survey has been made regarding the use of LSD, there is reason to believe a significant number of young people of school age have become involved."

"When one considers the susceptibility of young people to hidden persuaders and when one realizes the disastrous consequences which can follow the use of some drugs — particularly LSD — it is evident there is need for education to pay increasing attention to it."

In his speech and in a news conference later, Mr. Peterson also dealt with the problem of large classrooms — a major issue as far as B.C.'s 18,000 teachers are concerned.

Delegates earlier this week approved a resolution supporting any teacher who boycotts classrooms this September containing 40 or more students. He said the matter of limiting classroom sizes is a local issue, to be determined by the various school boards. Mr. Peterson said he hoped teachers would not interrupt the fall term by striking.

WISTERIA, B.C. (CP) — Cyril Shelford, Social Credit MLA for Omineca, made his second threat Wednesday to bolt party ranks over gasoline prices.

The maverick member was angered by government inaction on the Morrow Report on Gasoline Prices and condemned the government for its failure to move.

"There is no government policy and they seem to be taking no action," Mr. Shelford said in a telephone interview.

'NO ALTERNATIVE'

"If the government takes no action I will have no alternative but to change my political affiliation."

Mr. Shelford sparked the setting up of the commission by threatening to resign in 1964. The report of Judge Charles Morrow of Prince George called for a moratorium on service station building, reduction in the price differential between premium and regular gasolines and unspecified government action if its recommendations were not followed by the industry.

MOTION LOST

The report was tabled in the legislature in 1966. A legislative committee looked into the report this year but a motion by Burns Lake rancher Shelford for acceptance of the committee report was turned down.

The House also turned down a request from Mr. Shelford and three of the 14 other committee members to submit a minority report asking the government to bring the industry under the Public Utilities Commission.

Mr. Shelford said if no action is taken before the next session of the legislature that he will sit either as an independent or leave politics.

Attorney-General Bonner said Wednesday night in Victoria

Rebels Hit By Bolivia

LE PAZ (UPI) — Bolivian warplanes bombed newly-discovered clandestine airfields and guerrilla training camps in southeastern Bolivia Wednesday, and moved up troops to wipe them out.

Official reports have indicated Fidel Castro's revolutionary mainland, Ernesto (Che) Guevara, was among the guerrilla leaders, but there has been no official confirmation.

Empires Being Built?

NORTH COWICHAN—A charge of empire-building was levelled at a meeting of Maple Bay residents, as they voted almost unanimously to challenge the location of the new municipal hall.

Thirty-three of the 34 taxpayers voted to ask North Cowichan council to engage a professional planner and have his suggestion for a hall location approved at a plebiscite.

PETITION
Wife of North Cowichan Council member George Whittaker, Margaret Whittaker, passed a petition around at the meeting against the proposed location.

The petition is opposing the location because an indicated secession move should be settled first, she said, and the hall should be located in the main business area.

BREAK HINTED

Mrs. Whittaker referred to a group of people in the southern part of the municipality who hinted their interest in breaking away from North Cowichan to join the city of Duncan.

Her husband last week warned North Cowichan council he would take legal action if council ignores public opinion against the municipal hall location.

LOW BID

Council decided last week to put off signing of the contract with G. H. Wheaton of Victoria, which submitted the lowest bid for the hall construction amounting to $224,100 plus $13,500 for the cost of parking driveway work.

Council is expected to make a final decision Tuesday.

ADVICE

At the Maple Bay meeting, Bert Evans charged "I cannot conceive the idea that a public building is being built without professional advice."

NO UNITY

President Kurt Horn said "it seems to me the location of the hall is to be moved not for the convenience of the taxpayers, but to get away from Duncan," and Maple Bay resident Geza Boray added "This move would appear to assist disunity and the building of small empires all over the place."

EXPANSION

Coun. Margaret Robertson, quoting a press release, said the new hall is centrally located, has ample room for expansion, has easy access from main roads, is convenient to public works shops, will not conflict with immediate boundary changes, has municipal water and fire protection, will be paid for this year without tax increase, can be built and occupied by the end of August, and is a utility building without frills.

HUNTING

In other business, Maple Bay residents decided to submit a resolution to the municipal council requesting a ban on hunting on Maple Mountain except for a period from the end of September to the end of the hunting season.

Council earlier heard pros and cons regarding hunting on Maple Mountain and soon will make a decision.

DEVELOPMENT

Speaking against hunting, John Getgood said on a recent visit to the Maple Mountain park he was amazed to find that virtually nothing had been done since 1958 to develop the park.

His original motion to develop the area as a park and forbid hunting during the season.

Mr. Evans stressed he never goes hunting in any part of the municipality because no part is safe enough for hunting.

Jack Davis said hunters have just as much right to use municipal land as other recreation groups, and another taxpayer suggested an area be set aside for hunters with bows and arrows.

In an effort to make the Maple Bay district "an attractive, rural area" B.C. Hydro Authority will be asked to put a proposed power line underground instead of spoiling the scenic character.

Value for City Money Concerns McKnight

PORT ALBERNI—A city council recommendation that the annual assessment of the Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau be accepted, and that this amount be included in the city's donation to the Chamber of Commerce, was opposed by newly-elected Alderman George McKnight.

No request for funds has yet been received from the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. McKnight maintained, and such donations should not be allocated without a request.

FAIR SHARE

"Furthermore, I would like to be assured this area is getting a fair share of the publicity,"

Ald. McKnight said although he had looked on stands filled with publicity material on ferries and in other areas, he had found little or nothing pertaining to the Alberni Valley.

"And as far as the Chamber of Commerce is concerned, I will have remarks to make about that further when their request is received," Mr. McKnight said.

COMMENCE JOB

While he recognized that the Chamber of Commerce does considerable publicity work on behalf of the area, he claimed the chamber locally fell down on the commerce aspect of its work.

"I feel a Chamber of Commerce should do more than just concern itself with publicity."

ANOTHER GRANT

If the council wished to support the publicity bureau, it should do so separately from the Chamber of Commerce, he said.

Acting Mayor Bob Dalton explained the grant is given to the Chamber of Commerce which turns it over to the publicity bureau and in this way it is matched, dollar for dollar, by the provincial government, and is used primarily for advertising in major publications outside B.C.

SPEECH SOON

In an aside, Ald. Garnet Reynolds suggested that Ald. McKnight should get himself included as a guest speaker at the Chamber of Commerce. The new alderman gravely agreed, "I believe I would enjoy that, too."

Council members heard a report on the rat abatement program conducted between Dec. 5 and the end of March that showed that 72 pounds of Warfarin, and 11 cans of another rat poison described as "green and smelling like peanut butter."

The program proved effective in the waterfront area, particularly after a series of movable boxes with three-inch openings was constructed, which lured the rats to their fatal gourmet dinners.

Despite the wide publicity given the program, only 34 residents took advantage of the free rat poison offer. However, those who did so found the material highly effective.

MORE DIE

Ald. McKnight said he had visited the waterfront to see the plan in operation, and was particularly impressed by the latest material used, which he claimed smelled much like peanut butter and was apparently greatly relished by the rats.

Elimination of old sheds and outhouses and stricter control of food garbage disposal would be helpful in eliminating the rodents, the report suggested.

Residents wishing to take advantage of the poison offer may still do so by contacting the city works department.

Eleven hundred students at a technical school in Gault, Ontario, are learning about Canada and its history with the aid of a huge slab from a Douglas Fir from Port Alberni.

A letter from Edgar Rice, director of the school, thanked Port Alberni council for sending the slab of fir.

Another step toward amalgamation will be taken Friday when Alberni and Port Alberni RCMP detachments will move into their new quarters in the public safety building.

Separate contracts will be maintained with the two cities until the final amalgamation date, Oct. 28, but the two units will work as one force under Sgt. Roy Woodfin in new quarters.

Jean Goes Heavy

Big bulk carrier Jean loads with 2,000,000 feet of packaged lumber and 1,200,000 feet of loose lumber, before leaving Tahsis. It is maiden voyage of Jean, delivered by shipyard in Osaka, Japan, March 3. Ship is registered in Liberia.

Flood Control Going Ahead

By MARY TAYLOR

ALBERNI—Mayor Fred Bishop has welcomed assurances from the senior governments that flood control work will proceed.

During the past week, revised flood control plans were received and turned over to the consulting engineers employed by city council.

"It is expected the plans will be returned and discussed with council during the coming week," Mr. Bishop stated.

To expedite matters, the mayor and city manager met with the minister of lands, Ray Williston.

Mr. Williston assured us the government is prepared to get the work underway as soon as possible. After approval, the plans will be returned to the department, and they will make arrangements to call tenders, Mr. Bishop said.

The mayor said he had pointed out that it was essential work on the flood control program, which takes in the River Road and Kitsukis Creek area, should get under way during the spring and summer months.

It had been feared further delays would take the work into next fall and winter, when the work would be complicated by heavy rainfall and the seasonal flooding which the project is designed to control.

Mr. Williston agreed on the urgency, the mayor said.

While in Victoria, the Alberni delegation also spoke to Highway Minister Gagliardi, to seek assurance the long-delayed reconstruction of the road into the city of Alberni will be undertaken this year.

In particular, the area between Tebo Road and Helen Street, where a heavy concentration of population has now developed, was mentioned.

"The minister assured us he definitely intends to undertake the work this year," Mr. Bishop said.

MLA Dr. Howard McDiarmid accompanied the Alberni representatives.

Money bylaws providing the city's share of costs for both the flood control project and the highway reconstruction were passed more than 18 months ago.

However when the plans and estimates on the flood control project were received, they were 2½ times as high as had been originally contemplated, and complete revision was required.

Although the city's share of the costs had been set aside for the highway work, it was apparently not included in the provincial budget for last year.

Operation Awaits Curtain

By ARNOLD OLSON

NANAIMO — An actor who refused to let an emergency operation interfere with his stage work, won a round of applause from the audience and praise from adjudicator Franklyn Johnson Wednesday.

Ron Butler was scheduled to play the lead in Hortense Cough Tol by George Courteline, presented by Yellow Point Drama Group in the Island one-act drama festival.

But Wednesday he was rushed to hospital, and prepared for immediate surgery.

Said the adjudicator: "He talked himself out of hospital and onto the stage, with the promise that he would return to hospital for the operation the moment the show was over."

Mr. Johnson said it was "in the true tradition of theatre."

The adjudicator said Hortense Cough Tol, directed by Margaret Davidson, was an imaginative production.

"It lacked only volatility," he said.

"The seven players listened well, and reacted."

The first play of the evening was the first act of John Osborne's Look Back in Anger, the first play of the Angry Young Men.

Mr. Johnson said the play, generally too strong, except at one vital moment when he was just right.

Mr. Johnson said the play grew from the moment Eunice Jepson found herself stuck on a chair with a rope around her neck.

Three clubs present their best for a Nanaimo audience tonight. Lady Smith Little Theatre which has beaten bigger clubs four years running, has proven that membership numbers cannot beat hard work.

This is the club that has proven that women can get out and build a set.

They have men in the group, but the women saw that too much work placed on too few people for too long results in collapse.

They get out and hammer, paint, saw, and clean up. The men are on hand to supervise when necessary, and to do the really heavy work.

This co-operation has had its results, as the plaques on the zone's trophies will prove.

Harewood Players is a group of young people which decided that it would put its training on the line against adults, and see what happens.

Their play Penelope, The Pride of the Pickle Factory, is a melodrama that does not try to prove a thing, except that people like to laugh.

All teenagers, they play with unrestricted abandon, and give all their energy to the play.

Overtones, entered by St. Peter's Players, has been seen by local audiences before, but with a slightly different cast, and by a different director.

The former director has taken a part in the play.

Mark Brass, the new director, is only about 16, but he has been on stage almost as much as some of the adults in the festival.

This scene did not impress Dave Stupich, Nanaimo MLA, when he toured controversial Western Mines operation in Strathcona Park. Here, open pit mining is carried on, while conservationists and Campbell River Water District battle against what they claim is pollution of Buttle Lake. Mr. Stupich said while he was touring, he met two other visitors to the operation, Recreation Minister Kiernan and Mines Minister Brothers. "I don't think they were too happy to see me," he said.—(Agnes Flett)

Province Will Help Pave Roads

LAKE COWICHAN — Village council has been informed the department of highways will assist with heavy pavement of two village streets, King George and Wellington Road.

The two streets are only part of several hit by flood waters last year.

Wellington Road and King George Street will be used as detour routes in the event of future flooding. Council received a second letter from the department of highways saying a section of Lake Cowichan Road will be widened and straightened.

NANAIMO — This city has lost a big track meet. Lack of facilities resulted in Nanaimo losing the B.C.-Washington track meet.

Nanaimo Track and Field Club advised city council it had to cancel its attempt to host the meet.

The Lee and Associates report has been the result of lack of progress in street and sidewalk plans and development, but council was told the committee would have to begin plans without the report as further delay could not be allowed.

DUNCAN — Ella Christina Lyon, a resident of Shawigan Lake for 35 years, died at King's Daughter Hospital. She was born in Ontario in 1889, and came to British Columbia 42 years ago. Funeral service was held Wednesday.

Big Fair Scheduled

CHEMAINUS — A total of 20 Chemainus merchants will set the pace for modern merchandising at their first trade fair at the Legion Hall April 6, from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m.

Organizer Vern Kay of Kay's Hardware said the event is being held in conjunction with next week's Chamber of Commerce week.

From jewelry to tires and from hair styling to equipment for lawn care, fair visitors to the 20 booths will find nearly everything needed in their daily lives.

Mr. Kay said two large companies, MacMillan Bloedel and B.C. Forest Products, will have special industrial displays.

"Our theme will be Meet the Merchant and we hope to make it an annual affair."

Also represented at the trade fair will be members of the Junior Achievement Club who will display their wares and serve refreshments.

Mr. Kay said the club consists of top high school students who formed a model company last year to study and learn the working of a bigger company.

The young people so far have been engaged in planning, calculating, manufacturing and marketing bread boards and hanging baskets. Mr. Kay said "We hope the fair will be successful."

'Let's Get Together'

NORTH COWICHAN — Either amalgamation or regional planning would bring benefits to be faced with the same problem North Cowichan and Duncan, according to municipal Coun Margaret Robertson.

She told a meeting of Maple Bay ratepayers "Creeping annexation solves no problems, neither the city's nor ours."

She said it would be a "rich plum" for Duncan to take in a few streets north of the present boundary.

"But all it would do is set up another boundary and we would have worked with the same problem again."

She quoted three items which have worked satisfactorily on a larger scale.

The Cowichan School District, which encompasses the largest part of North Cowichan, Duncan and the unorganized area.

The new Cowichan District Hospital whose present construction was only possible through the co-operation between North Cowichan, the city, Lake Cowichan area and the Koksilah district and at least two parks which are jointly operated by the city and the municipality.

"Our own regional district would comprise the Cowichan, Lake Cowichan and Ladysmith school districts."

"There is no doubt that we will eventually amalgamate, have regional districts, or both."

UNION BAY — Preliminary work has been done on the project of building a new building for Union Bay Credit Union.

Construction will start soon. Active membership is still increasing; it is now 293. The branch has total assets of $149,450.82.

Credit committee chairman Ken Peters said 76 loans, totalling $55,463, were approved last year.

The membership accepted the directors' recommendation for 4 1/2 per cent interest on shares and a 20 per cent rebate on interest paid.

Reed Roth is president of the organization. Other officers are Fred Peters, vice-president; Lillian Murdock, treasurer; George Duffield, supervisory committee.

Directors are Harold Chapman, Gerry Stewart and Lillian Murdock. Credit committee director is Roy Knox.

New Ideas for Old Ship

By WAYNE THOMAS

The old ship at the bottom of Fort Street may look like a rusted, burned-out hulk, but she represents a $500,000 investment to 40 Victoria professional and businessmen.

Seaview Enterprises Ltd., a subsidiary of Red Lion Inn owners Diversified Management and Development Ltd., bought the former U.S. navy ship recently in Portland for $60,000.

Work will begin in a few weeks on renovating the 1944-built USS Robert M. Emery, a coastal freighter, into a $500,000 glittering Marine Wonderland. That'll be her new name.

WHARF LOCATION

The 283-foot ship will be moored alongside Fishermen's Wharf in San Francisco in late August.

Three aquariums will be installed, the largest, a 75-foot by 12-foot underwater theatre in the lower hold, to contain 11-foot killer whales and porpoises, trained by former Victoria animal-trainer Ross McBride to perform small acts and tricks.

FOOD FOR SEALS

Skindivers will describe the fish they'll swim among in the 'tween decks aquarium, using latest underwater telecommunications equipment, and divers will be able to feed the seals in the above-decks tank after they have completed their acts.

John Case, who is designing the layout for the company on behalf of Case Ecological Laboratories Ltd., a local marine architectural and engineering firm, says the ship will be the only one of its type in the world.

RESTAURANT LATER

The project is being spearheaded by Victoria solicitor D.M.D. in one of several people David Hummel, a director of D.M.D., one of several people who started planning the venture a year ago.

The ship will be a marine attraction the first year and then, authorities permitting, a licensed restaurant will be installed to exploit the San Francisco convention field.

Operations manager Bruce Champion says Seaview Enterprises Ltd. is 99 per cent Victoria-owned.

ONE-WAY DRAIN

John Case, another member of the group, said of the fact much of the expected profit will return here:

"For a change, it'll be a one-way drain back to Canada instead of the usual reverse."

The company received permission from U.S. authorities to buy the ship in the U.S., return it to Canada for refitting and then take it back into the U.S.

This is usually not allowed by

Juveniles Suspected

CHILLIWACK (CP) — Police in the Fraser Valley are attempting to untangle a web of break-ins and thefts in which a large number of Chilliwack and Abbotsford juveniles are alleged to be involved. A police spokesman says there have been about 200 unsolved break-ins in the area in the last few months.

Old coastal freighter facing bright future—in San Francisco

U.S. law but shipyards there, as well as arms factories and aircraft companies, are working around the clock churning out materials for the Vietnam war effort and all shipyards are full.

"They could have squeezed us in for a refit, but the prices are so inflated that the cost would have been prohibitive," Mr. Champion said.

"So we got permission to have the ship refitted in Victoria which is cheaper, and more appropriate."

The ship was bought from a large U.S. shipyard cum-scrapper merchant shortly before it was to be scrapped.

For the past 20 years it has been moored in the mothball fleet of ex-warships which are coated with rust preventive and checked for defects every five years.

She has had a less than illustrious career, missing any Second World War action. Her four sets of twin-40 millimetre guns were never fired in anger.

She was first a U.S. Navy coastal freighter, sticking close to the U.S. east coast, and then given to the U.S. army which used her for a harbor-repair ship.

She's now a dead ship, with no engine and stripped of most equipment, but by the time she reaches San Francisco, there'll be a crew of 18.

The refit job will be done by Marquart Marine Construction Ltd., a D.M.D. subsidiary.

Rain Poured Through 'Cocoon'

Old City Hall Will Get New Roof

At a cost of $13,740 the old section of City Hall is to get a new roof.

Aldermen, sitting in on a short estimates cutting session Wednesday, were told that the roof of the old part of the building was given a "cocoon" when the new section of the building was constructed. It was a money-saving measure.

Since then it has leaked badly. During one rainstorm last year the water poured in the upstairs lunchroom and through the floor to the treasurer's department below.

The job will be difficult, aldermen were told, because of the old-fashioned style of the building and its roof.

Aldermen in B Group, which includes public works, parks, planning, urban renewal and water works committees, completed the first session of estimates cutting Wednesday.

The second session will start

Shaft Fault Recalls Corvairs

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Chevrolet division Wednesday called back 12,602 new Corvairs to correct a possible defect that might cause the steering shaft to snap.

It was the first time Chevrolet's low-priced "economy" car has been affected by the newest wave of publicly announced recalls.

The auto companies must announce the extent of such recalls under the provisions of the new federal safety laws.

Chevrolet said, "The shaft in their dealers to have the steering shafts replaced."

The company said two failures had been reported. Both of them occurred while the cars were being parked.

"Should the stress become severe enough or extend over a period of time, the shaft could break and cause a loss of steering," GM said.

Fleet Home On Waves Of Welcome

By WAYNE THOMAS

Crowds crammed vantage points on Dallas Road and Clover Point Tuesday morning to welcome a flotilla of seven RCN destroyer-escorts which manoeuvred in close formation off-shore.

The welcome was reserved mainly for about 800 officers and men from Victoria on board five of the ships, two returning after three months in the Caribbean and three transferred here from the East Coast fleet at Halifax.

Two Esquimalt-based ships, HMCS St. Croix and Yukon, steamed out from port to greet the arrival and to take part in the sailpast.

The seven ships rendezvoused about a mile out to sea, and led by Capt. J. B. Young, commander of the Second Canadian Escort Squadron, in HMCS Saskatchewan, they steamed in line-abreast formation toward Victoria's Outer Wharf.

turned into line astern and cruised along the shore.

Then, on full rudder and propeller shafts shuddering, the ships turned back along the coastline, with HMCS Saskatchewan racing from the rear at 30 knots to re-take the lead.

While wives, sweethearts and families waited impatiently on the jetties, the ships steamed slowly into HMC Dockyard, with ships' companies at attention and bridge officers peering through binoculars seeking out their loved ones and waving.

There were hundreds of joyous and tearful reunions as sailors who had not seen their wives for months held them close and patted their children's heads.

KISS AND YELP of joy by boxer Cleopatra at the sight of her master CPO Brian Pope, 3738 Tillam, when he returned on HMCS Crescent after several months attached to the east coast fleet in Halifax. CPO Pope was one of 1,100 officers and men who arrived in HMC Dockyard Tuesday on five RCN destroyer-escorts.—(Jim Ryan)

Student Vote Averts Boycott of Classes

By BILL STAVDAL

A threatened student boycott of classes at the University of Victoria was averted by the vote of a mass meeting Tuesday.

About 1,500 students — nearly half the university's enrolment — voted overwhelmingly to wait until next Wednesday, when university president Malcolm Taylor will give a report on the current faculty crisis, triggered by three dismissals.

What he says will be influenced by a meeting of the joint faculties — teachers and administration — to be held Tuesday. It will be the first explanation of its position by the administration.

DOCUMENT

The outcome of Tuesday's meeting will partly depend on a document to be made public Monday. It is the report of the Canadian Association of University Teachers, which investigated a charge of violation of academic freedom.

The charge was made by Dr. Charles Tarlton, an assistant professor of political science, whose contract was not renewed by the university this winter.

Also dismissed were English lecturer J. S. Schwartz and Alan Mackenzie, an English instructor.

NO EXPLANATION

Students, the dismissed faculty and three other teachers who have resigned in protest have all charged that the firings were motivated by non-academic factors.

The administration has given no explanation, even to the dismissed men. At Tuesday's meeting students applauded two past presidents of the student council who urged delay of any protest action.

They were Paul Williamson and Stephen Bigsby.

Mr. Williamson and Mr. Bigsby, together with fine arts Professor Tony Emery and Dr. Peter Smith, head of the classics department, formed a delegation which met Dr. Taylor before noon Tuesday.

Dr. Taylor told them of the forthcoming joint faculties meeting and offered to address the students Wednesday, Mr. Williamson announced.

The students passed a resolution commending Dr. Taylor for agreeing to speak before the students.

The group also passed a resolution strongly critical of Dr.

Alex Wood, dean of arts and science. Dr. Wood headed a review committee which agreed not to renew the contracts of Dr. Tarlton, Mr. Schwartz and Mr. Mackenzie.

The resolution concerning Dr. Wood was proposed by Nan Elliot, a former secretary of the Alma Mater Society.

It said that the contract terminations constituted "a gross repudiation of academic freedom" and charged coercion by unnamed faculty members who allegedly threatened to resign unless the three were dismissed.

'LACK OF CONFIDENCE'

The resolution charged Dr. Wood and Ronald Jeffels, dean of student affairs, "impugned the characters" of the dismissed two during conversations with students.

It expressed "lack of confidence in the actions of the dean of arts and science."

The other resolution, concerning Dr. Taylor, said in part:

DELAY URGED

"We, the students of the University of Victoria, reaffirm our belief in toleration of diversity and a democratic assessment of faculty members on academic grounds only by their peers."

About half a dozen raised hands opposed both resolutions.

Mr. Williamson, in urging a delay of any student protest, said:

"Until we hear from that (Tuesday) meeting, I suggest we throw our support behind Dr. Taylor."

"Let us express our confidence in his ability to salvage this thing next week."

Mr. Bigsby opposed a non-confidence motion in Dr. Taylor which had previously been intended to go to a vote at Tuesday's meeting.

He declared himself against any attempt to overthrow the basic structure of the university.

Faculty Letter Protests

An open letter signed by 31 faculty members of the University of Victoria protests president Malcolm Taylor's charge last week that "certain elements" are trying to damage the university's reputation.

The letter was delivered to Dr. Taylor on Tuesday. It refers to a statement made by Dr. Taylor in connection with the dismissals of Dr. Charles Tarlton, J. S. Schwartz and Alan Mackenzie.

In his letter to all faculty members, Dr. Taylor said, in part:

"It seems to me now that certain elements are determined to undermine—perhaps even destroy—the professional standing of the faculty and the good name of the university."

The letter signed by the 31 faculty members replies:

"This statement is unfortunate in many ways. It classes all those who feel bound in conscience to protest the dismissals of themselves or their colleagues in a single group, implying a community of opinion and a malicious intent which we do not believe exists.

"The current dismissals, and the related issue of academic freedom, concern us all and concern the future of the university."

"Dr. Taylor's statement implies that men who speak out on these vital issues do not have the interests of the university at heart."

The letter continues:

"Effective criticism, as necessary in the university as in the state, will be stifled if the stigma of disloyalty is attached to any questioning of administrative decisions and procedures."

It concludes:

"This letter is written by colleagues who agree on the issues presented above but who may well disagree on others, and is not prompted by any specific 'element' on campus or by any malicious intent."

Dazed Dad Corrected

"No, I'm 12, Daddy," corrected Cheryl Robinson, of 556 Forward Drive, as her father, PO George Robinson of the Saskatchewan told me she was 11.

"She must've had a birthday while I was down there," he said with a dazed smile, still slightly shocked at seeing his wife and four children for the first time since Jan. 5.

The sailors are nearly all due for leave, ranging from a few days to two weeks.

Navy officials described the sailpast of the grey destroyers, each with a red maple leaf on its funnel, as the most impressive held off Victoria in years.

Merging with an overcast sky and grey-black sea, the ships sliced effortlessly through the water, spewing white froth from their sterns while manoeuvring only yards apart at high speed. HMCS Saskatchewan and Mackenzie were among 11 Canadian vessels to participate in the giant spring naval exercise in the Caribbean, code-named Maple Spring '67 by the Canadian fleet, and based at San Juan, Puerto Rico.

A total of 15,000 U.S., Canadian and British personnel, 60 warships, several squadrons of aircraft and two U.S. Marine divisions were involved.

The exercise itself lasted seven weeks, with Canadian ships being mainly involved with anti-submarine tactics.

RCN vessels also carried out practice surface attacks on other ships and defended themselves against simulated air at-

U.S. on War Status

"It was a real pleasure to work with the U.S. ships," said Capt. Young. "They are at war, we are not, and the difference was marked."

"I think we all learned a lot from them, they are professionals and for them it's learn to kill, or be killed. Some of the ships involved are off to Vietnam soon," he said.

Capt. Young, 44, who has lived in Victoria since last July at 2130 Central Avenue with his wife and three daughters, is tanned brown by the Caribbean sun, as are most of his officers and men.

"It's like a cold hell to come back to this," indicated LS Dave Smith of Cowichan Lake, at the chill southeast wind and choppy seas.

Esquimalt-based Saskatchewan and Mackenzie were joined by the East Coast destroyer-escorts Columbia (also a late-model DDE vessel), Algonquin and Crescent, both Second World War ships, soon after leaving the Panama Canal on the return voyage.

The West Coast fleet now stands at eight anti-submarine destroyer-escorts and two ocean escorts.

The Algonquin and Crescent will be placed soon on the reserve list and Columbia is scheduled for an overhaul in the near future.

"We certainly got a good welcome at the Caribbean places we called in at, including Balboa, Barbados, San Juan and Colombia, and the local populations were definitely pro-Canadian," Capt. Young said.

Pointing to streams of people boarding the seven ships berthed in HMC Dockyard, he added with a smile, "Though they weren't as good as this welcome."

Skiers Abandon Centennial Trek

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Two women and 10 men who set out to ski 60 miles southwest along the Trail of '98 to Skagway, Alaska, from Carcross, Y.T., as a centennial project, were forced by broken equipment and turned back about 33 miles from their destination. The 12 are all from Whitehorse.

Flood Isolates Trail Suburb

TRAIL (CP) — Twenty residents of the nearby community of Osois were isolated after heavy rains and flooding severed their only road link with the Nelson-Trail highway.

The rain, combined with soaring temperatures and melting snow, left six-foot deep trenches across the dirt road that connects Osois with the main highway.

Pearson Raps Old Concepts

Get Off Nationalism Kick!

CALGARY (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson said Wednesday Canada has become preoccupied with nationalism and national identity at a time when science and technology have made national sovereignty practically obsolete.

"Canada should never prefer either isolation or continentalism to broad-based internationalism," he told a com-joined luncheon meeting of service clubs here.

"Nor should there be any policy of action by any Canadian government on foreign investment and ownership until we know all the facts."

"Research into these facts is now going on by a group of qualified experts and we hope to have its conclusions in a few months."

Some Canadian nationalism seemed to be anti-American, "another obsolete and foolish concept for a country like Canada."

Canadians should reject extremes of anti-Americanism based on prejudice and of profit-motivated ideas of improving this country's material lot by "becoming hewers of more and more wood and drawers of more and more water for U.S. owners and investors."

The prime minister also criticized the "growing tendency of some provinces to blame their own difficulties on the lack of political understanding or fiscal justice shown by Ottawa in federal-provincial relations."

They warned Ottawa to keep out of all matters belonging to the provinces and condemned excessive federal spending while demanding more federal money.

He said the future holds no reduction in the scope or power of government at any level. This might be bad news for those, "including many Albertans," who believe the least government is the best government.

"Government . . . in a free society . . . cannot escape its role as the main instrument for removing inequities and inequalities among citizens and as the chief referee of responsible behavior among the various segments of the community."

Landymore

Return 'Only Fair'

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Wednesday it would only be fair to reinstate Admiral William Landymore into the navy.

In a CBC free-time telecast, he charged that Defence Minister Healey is rushing his unification bill through Parliament in a bid to seize the Liberal leadership, "regardless of the consequences."

"You recall that the minister attacked Admiral Landymore, almost stating he has been treacherous to his country. He had to apologize."

'ONLY FAIRNESS'

"It would be only fairness today to reinstate the admiral, to put an end to this rush towards unification so that Canadians once more will be able to live in the traditions of their past and the greatness of their services."

The admiral was fired as commanding officer of Maritime Command last July after clashing with Mr. Healey over

Johnson Reins CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has ordered the U.C. Central Intelligence Agency to get out of the business of subsidizing private groups through secret, under-the-table deals. (See Page 8.)

Johnson at the same time Wednesday promised to give serious consideration to creation of a new institution that in effect would continue federal subsidies, but do so in the open.

The president acted after receiving recommendations from a three-man group he appointed after disclosure that the CIA had been secretly financing overseas activities by private educational, labor, philanthropic and cultural organizations.

Johnson accepted the following recommended policy statement by the group:

"No federal agency shall provide any covert financial assistance or support, directly or indirectly, to any of the nation's educational or private voluntary organizations."

JET DROPS INTO MOTEL

KENNER, La. (UPI) — A Delta Airlines DC-8 on a training flight crashed in a residential area near the New Orleans airport today, setting a Hilton motel complex afire.

Police said at least eight persons were killed. The big craft, carrying a captain, four trainers and an inspector for the Federal Aviation Agency, was approaching the runway when its wing dipped and clipped three houses and the plane crashed into the back part of the motel, setting it afire.

Police said five bodies were recovered from the plane, two from the surrounding area of residences and apartment houses and one from the motel. Residents of the apartment houses said they heard an explosion, and then "terrible screaming," according to the state police.

Passenger Killed In Plane Plunge

CASPER, Wyo. (UPI) — A United Air Lines jet passenger plane fell 8,000 feet down an air pocket high over Wyoming Wednesday, but landed safely here. One man was killed when he released his seat belt to grab his granddaughter.

Other passengers were reported injured and were taken to Natrona County airport by ambulances standing by at the Casper airport.

Only Huntley Sticks To His Mike

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's major television and radio networks carried on Wednesday with barely a hitch on the first day of an unprecedented newsmen and performers' strike that had secretaries pinching for commentators and lawyers for engineers.

Some 18,000 members of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists went on strike at dawn at CBS, ABC, NBC and Mutual network studios and stations in New York, Washington, Chicago and Los Angeles. Some of the networks' broadcast engineers, newsmen crews and stage crews walked out in sympathy later in the day.

Film files and tape libraries were raided for replacements for live soap operas, panel shows, quiz games and even some newscasts which had to be skipped. Famous names like David Brinkley, Johnny Carson, Walter Cronkite, Captain Kangaroo, Peter Jennings and Hugh Downs, were off the air and some were on the picket line.

"And I'll be there tomorrow morning, too," said Downs after seven hours of marching outside NBC-TV's midtown headquarters, part of the time in a drenching rain. He had inadvertently been driven to the building in a network limousine.

Shelford Threat

Inaction Revives Bolt Talk

WISTERIA, B.C. (CP) — Cyril Shelford, Social Credit MLA for Omineca, made his second threat Wednesday to bolt party ranks over gasoline prices.

The maverick member was angered by government inaction on the Morrow Report on Gasoline Prices and condemned the government for its failure to move.

"There is no government policy and they seem to be taking no action," Mr. Shelford said in a telephone interview.

'NO ALTERNATIVE'

"If the government takes no action I will have no alternative, but to change my political affiliation."

Mr. Shelford sparked the setting up of the commission by threatening to resign in 1964.

The report of Judge Charles Morrow of Prince George called for a moratorium on service station building, reduction in the price differential between premium and regular gasolines and unspecified government action if its recommendations were not followed by the industry.

MOTION LOST

The report was tabled in the legislature in 1966. A legislative committee looked into the report this year but a motion by Burns Lake rancher Shelford for acceptance of the committee report was turned down.

The House also turned down a request from Mr. Shelford and three of the 14 other committee members to submit a minority report asking the government to bring the industry under the Public Utilities Commission.

Mr. Shelford said if no action is taken before the next session of the legislature that he will sit either as an independent or leave politics.

Attorney-General Bonner said Wednesday night in Victoria

Rebels Hit By Bolivia

LE PAZ (UPI) — Bolivian warplanes bombed newly-discovered clandestine airfields and guerrilla training camps in southeastern Bolivia Wednesday and moved up troops to wipe them out.

Official reports have indicated Fidel Castro's revolutionary mastermind, Ernesto (Che) Guevara, was among the guerrilla leaders, but there has been no official confirmation.

Rugliati before abandoning grounded tanker

Screams in Night

GENOA, Italy (UPI) — The captain cried out as in pain. "I must answer for everything, for everyone."

A thousand miles away, rockets, bombs and napalm canisters shattered and seared the remains of his ship. (See also Page 30.)

"I must carry the cross alone," he cried.

Every explosion and tongue of fire aboard the pieces of the reefed super tanker Torrey Canyon off southwestern Britain was a blow to Pastrengo Rugliati.

Once he served aboard an Italian submarine and then skippered an Italian torpedo boat in the Second World War. Captured, he spent 19 months in a prison camp in Poland, then returned to the sea.

He commanded a sister ship of the Torrey Canyon before he took command of the super tanker now spilling its cargo of crude oil on the coastal waters and shores of Cornwall, England.

"Only I must answer for what's happened," Rugliati said. "I should never have left my ship. My place was with her."

He had spent two days aboard trying to salvage the tanker. Then he flew home. "Please, please, dear, think of us," his wife, Anna, consoled him. "Think of your family."

He trembled; his voice cracked as he spoke to newsmen.

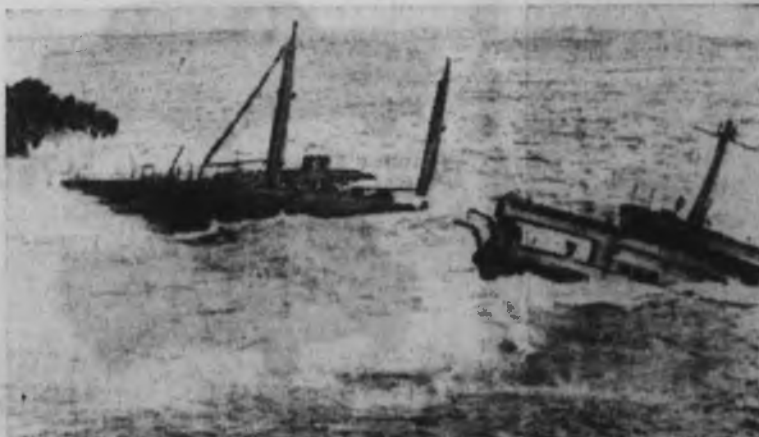

"He wakes up screaming every night," his wife said. "He says he hears the roar of the rocks tearing into his ship. We had to send him to the doctor."

Rugliati, his face haggard, would not answer questions about how the modern ship, 61,263 tons, carrying 118,000 tons of crude oil from Kuwait to Britain, had struck Seven Stones reef.

There is $16,500,000 in insurance involved. There probably will be claims because of belated beaches in England. The ramifications of the reefing of the Torrey Canyon could keep admiralty lawyers busy for years.

For Rugliati now it is a recurring nightmare.

"He is still in a state of shock," his wife said, comforting him.

Double Blow to Super Fleet

VANCOUVER (CP) — A world shipping magnate Wednesday described the Torrey Canyon disaster as a two-fisted blow that will be felt by the shipping industry for years to come.

C. Y. Tung, head of Orient Overseas Line, which has a fleet of more than 60 vessels operating through Hong Kong, said major companies now will be wary about building super tankers.

He also said loss of the 62,000-ton Torrey Canyon would boost insurance premiums to a degree that would extend over the next 15 years.

Mr. Tung's company is currently building three super-tankers of 200,000 tons deadweight tonnage each, which will be among the largest in the world.

He feels 200,000 tons is about the economic maximum in construction of tankers or bulk carriers.

"As a result of the Torrey Canyon wreck, the biggest in history, insurance companies will not be prepared to shoulder bigger risks," he added.
